PARIS, Nov. 5.—(Thursday)
(AP)—A dispatch from the Spanish insurgent front today stated the Madrid government evacuated planes at the Cuatro Vientos airport on the outskirts of Madrid.
The dispatch said the government forces, falling back almost to the gates of the capital itself, set fire to the airplane hangars before abandoning the airport.

MADRID, Nov. 4.—Spanish millitanes, with their backs to Madrid, tonight rained shells on Fascist-held Getafe, eight miles south of here, as a new cabinet was announced with Spain's first woman minister among four syndicalists given portfolios.

Socialist batteries at El Cerro de Los Angeles, west of Getafe, bombarded the insurgents there, blocking their attempt to cross to the east to take over the Valencia high-road.

The roaring of the guns was heard intermittently from several points in the capital.

Atlanta Is Nabbed,
$3,000 in Dope Seized

At 5:21 o'clock yesterday afternoon
Joe Benson, 36, of 501 Fowler street, stepped lightly from a New York train at Brookwood station, carrying a copy of the New York Times of November 3 under his arm.

At 5:22 o'clock he was greeted with open arms by Federal Narcotic Agent
Edward Murphy and City Detective Walter McGee, who seemed to be very anxious to see the Times.

At 5:23 o'clock the law enforcers had opened the paper and removed a six-ounce bottle of heroin valued at $3,000.

At 5:23 o'clock Benson was in the Atlanta jail being held for the United States government pending arraignment before the United States commissioner.

According to McGee, Benson has one of the largest dope connections in Atlanta and has been wanted by local and federal agents for a long time.

OWNERS OF SHIPS REFUSE TO MEET STRIKING SEAMEN

Results of Association Meeting Is Disappointing to Edward F. Mc-
Grady, Assistant Labor
Secretary.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—(UP) Peace moves in the Pacific maritime strike suffered a setback tonight when the ship owners' association of the Pacific refused to meet strikers.

Spokesmen for the association, representing operators of steam schooners engaged in coastwise trade, refused to comment on the results of a meeting.

But it was learned from other sources they could not reach an agreement among themselves on the proposal of Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, that they resume negotiations with the masters, motors and pilots' association.

The joint union strike committee also ended a conference session without arriving at a decision on the ship owners' request for maintenance or safety crews to man the 150 ships left in harbors when their crews walked out last week.

The decision has been postponed three times in the face of a threat by the operators to seek the assistance of the United States navy in manning their idle boats. A report from Portland that United States Department

Fluker's Wife Stands by Him in Murder Trial

Odie V. Fluker, on trial for the murder of Eddie Guyol, Atlanta
(standing), in Fulton superior court yesterday. Mrs. Fluker was constantly by her husband's side during the day as the state introduced Mrs.

GOAL OF $423,846
IS SET FOR CHEST

Volunteer Workers Gather To Hear of Plans for Annual Welfare Drive.

The goal of $423,846, and the slogan,
"We can do more this year," sped an array of volunteer workers into organization of the 14th annual Community Chest campaign last night.

The goal, the minimum amount needed for the services which 34 agencies of the Chest give to one-third of the families of Atlanta, was reported at the meeting of the 14 groups divisions of the campaign workers at the Athletic Club.

This goal was fixed as a result of weeks of close study by the budget committee of the Chest, headed by Russell G. Turner, attorney for Fluker, the witness stand said she saw Fluker for the first time, when his face appeared in the window of the Guyol car in the driveway of their fashionable pelham road residence April 23, 1935, and that the fatal shot was fired by him.

"Eddie, you got it coming to you," she quoted her husband's assailant as saying just before the shot.

On cross-examination conducted by Russell G. Turner, attorney for Fluker,
Mrs. Guyol denied she killed her husband or that she had hired anyone to do the job for her.

"Absolutely not," she replied to Turner's direct question. "He was wonderful to me."

Questions by the defense attorney as to Guyol's business, how he earned the $2,223 found in his possession at the time of his death, the amount of his estate and how much money he had in a safety deposit box were ruled out by Judge Davis when Boykin objected to irrelevancy.

The trial of Fluker on the charge of shooting Guyol is expected to provide sensational testimony and evidence as it progresses, it was said.
Guyol was known as a "numbers" game operator, and his widow and Walter Cutcliffe, his former partner in business, have offered a reward of $10,000 for the arrest and conviction of his slayer.

After the jury was drawn early yesterday afternoon, the state, represented by Boykin and Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews, swore in 32 state witnesses, while the defense counsel, Turner and J. L. Busby, Birmingham lawyer, swore in a dozen.

FIVE AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION BEATEN BY VOTERS

Moultrie and Supreme Court Proposals Only Winners, as Roosevelt's Georgia Margin Grows.

As mounting returns from Tuesday's general election emphasized the great popularity of President Roosevelt in Georgia it was definitely revealed yesterday that five of the seven proposed constitutional amendments were rejected by the voters.

Completions of the returns from Fulton and DeKalb counties showed the vote in the Atlanta area followed the general trend over the state.

Proposals to limit the tax on tangible property to 15 mills; to give the state school superintendent a four-year term; to lengthen the terms of the governor and other constitutional officers and to create the position of lieutenant governor were voted down.

Approved were a proposal authorizing Moultrie to enact a zoning ordinance and another providing for a revision in requirements for filing cases before the state supreme court.

Eight to One.
With more than 260,000 votes counted in the presidential race, Roosevelt had 228,666 to 33,978 for Governor Alf Landon, the Republican candidate, or about eight votes to one.
This figure was on returns from 1,574 of the state's 1,766 precincts.

The figures gave Colvin (Prohibi-tionist) 412; Thomas (Socialist) 49;
Lemke (Union party) 142.

E. D. Rivers, resting at an Atlanta hospital to recover from a mild attack of influenza, maintained a vast margin over his lone opponent for the governorship, the Rev. L. P. Glass, Sylvania Prohibitionist.

Of the Roosevelt landslide, Rivers said:
"I am immensely pleased. The result could not have been better."

Glass issued a statement expressing hope that Rivers will have "a

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)
A massive Democratic majority received marching orders today to assemble in the new congress two months from tomorrow to pass on Roosevelt legislative proposals.

Late compilations of election returns showed that when President Roosevelt next addresses a joint session of the senate and house, probably in January, he will look into the eyes of the largest number of Democrats ever to sit on Capitol Hill at one time.

Such a top-heavy majority was indicated that a new assignment of seats was inevitable. Even before the election the Democrats occupied a large share of the normally Republican state in both chambers.

But such numerical strength does not necessarily mean a smooth-working legislative machine. Some Democratic spokesmen have expressed the belief that the party leaders would have difficulty keeping such a majority in line. Democrats were definitely assured tonight of 71 senate seats and were leading in four other contests with the possibility of a total of 75 seats. Republicans were certain of 17 members with the re-election of Senator
McNary, of Oregon, the party leader.
A majority is 49.

May Have 84 House Seats.
In the house, Democrats had elected at least 327 new members compared with 89 for the Republicans, and it looked probable that there would be 340 Democrats, only 84 Republicans, 7 Progressives and 4 Farmer-Laborites in the body.

Last session the Democrats had 70 senators compared with 22 Republicans. In the house they had 308 members against 109 Republicans.

In the next congress they will supplant at least five senate Republicans.
The Democrats lost in Massachusetts.

Gladstone Williams "Called the Turn"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Six Washington newspapermen called the exact turn on President Roosevelt's unprecedented victory in yesterday's national elections.

Participating in the quadrennial poll which the National Press Club, made up of journalists from all over the world, the six correspondents each predicted that Mr. Roosevelt would receive 523 of the 531 votes in the electoral college, and that he would lose only Maine and Vermont. There were 161 entries in the political guessing contest, many of them being as far as 200 votes off.

Here are the six news writers who gave Mr. Roosevelt the precise electoral vote he apparently has received: Sir Will Mott Lewis, of the London Times; Ray T. Tucker, of McClure's Syndicate; Fulton
Lewis Jr., of Universal Service;
Felix Cotton, of International News Service; Laurence Todd, of a Russian news agency, and Gladstone Williams, Washington correspondent of The Atlanta Constitution.

President Expresses Grat-

Changes in His Program

By The Associated Press.
With millions of votes still untabulated, President Roosevelt's popular vote plurality passed the record-breaking figure of 9,000,000 early today and was climbing upward.

As the total tabulated vote reached 40,720,832 for the highest mark in history, Roosevelt had 24,628, 962 to 15,423,055 for his Republican opponent. Almost 20,000 voting districts were still unreported, indicating a possible total vote of 45,000,000 upward. If the trend continues the President's plurality would pass 10,000,000.

So vast was his margin over Alfred M. Landon that followers called it a clear mandate for Mr. Roosevelt to continue his liberal policies; even some of his bitterest opponents said every real American must stand behind the President.

Some reactions were immediately visible. The stock market was thrown into a buying whirl, with some issues advancing to a new five-year high and only public utility stocks the object of heavy selling.

Just two states, Maine and Vermont, with a total of eight electoral votes, stood on the Landon side.

New Hampshire spent election night in the Landon column, then climbed on the Democratic bandwagon.

11 Million Majority Seen.
In the end, the President seemed certain of 523 electoral votes, Landon
8. It was the nearest approach to unanimity in the electoral college

DEMOCRATIC PARTY GAINS IN CONGRESS

however, to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., grandson of the celebrated historian and senatorial foe of the League of Nations. Lodge trounced former Governor James M. Curley, who aspired to succeed the retiring Democrat, Marcus Coolidge. Democrats won at least 22 Republican house seats, but lost at least 10 now occupied by members of their party.

There was considerable speculation in between scrutiny of election returns as to what President Roosevelt will propose to the new congress. His reply to Governor Alf M. Landon's demand that he make public his program was this:

"Of course, we will continue to seek to improve working conditions for the workers of America—to reduce hours overwork, to increase wages, to end starvation, to end labor of children, to wipe out sweatshops.

To Hold to Objectives. "Of course, we will continue every effort to end monopoly in business, to support collective bargaining, to stop unfair competition, to abolish dishonest trade practices, to give the people what we have only just begun to fight."

It was taken for granted on all sides, in view of this militant program, that the President contemplated no surrender of his objectives. The major questions in the public mind is whether Mr. Roosevelt contemplates any substitute for NRA which was held unconstitutional by unanimous vote of the supreme court. Another legislative topic believed certain to come before congress this winter is crop insurance to protect farmers against hazards of an erratic mother nature. Both President Roosevelt and Governor Landon backed such action.

A substitute for the Guffey act to regulate the soft coal industry also is believed certain to be advanced on Capitol Hill. The supreme court invalidated the original act on the ground that it violated states' rights.

Other possible problems include revision and amendment of the social security act. Democrats who will sit in senate seats formerly occupied by Republicans while they consider new legislation this winter are:

James H. Hughes, who eliminated Senator Hastings, of Delaware, former chairman of the Delaware senatorial campaign committee.

Norris Is Victor. Prentiss M. Brown, who won from former Governor Wilbur M. Bruce, in Michigan. Bruce defeated the late Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, for renomination after the latter advocated the re-election of President Roosevelt.

William H. Smithers, New Jersey state senator, who ousted Senator W. Warren Barbour to give the state its first two Democratic senators in the national legislature since the Roosevelt administration.

Governor Theodore Francis Green, of Rhode Island, who ejected Senator Jesse H. Metcalf.

H. H. (Harry) Schwartz, who eliminated Senator Robert D. Carey, of Wyoming, to give that state two Democratic senators for the first time in history.

George W. Norris, former Republican, running as an Independent in Nebraska, with the backing of President Roosevelt, returned to the senate as the veteran Republican, Borah, of Idaho, and Capper, of Kansas.

Another newcomer to the senate will be H. Styles Bridges, Republican governor of New Hampshire, who was prominently mentioned as a possible nominee for vice president during the Cleveland convention.

Other Democrats new to the senate will be the Governor Ed C. Johnson, of Colorado; Claude Pepper and Charles O. Andrews, of Florida; Allen J. Ellender, of Louisiana; and Josh Lee, of Oklahoma. Representative Lunden, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, also was elected to the senate.

Among the house Republicans defeated were Florence P. Kahn, of California; Bolton, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, and Bacharach, of New Jersey.

The Senate. Associated Press returns on the 36 seats in the United States senate, compiled to 8 p. m., central time, showed: Democrats elected, 24; holdovers, 47; total, 71.

Quadruplets Are Born to Missouri Farm Mother

In a two-room log cabin in the sharecropper country five miles northwest of Senath, Mo., Mrs. Pearl Bridges, 35, wife of a tenant farmer, gave birth to quadruplets within a period of six minutes. Three of the children were girls and the other a boy. Last night, all but the girl died and physicians gave her a "50-50" chance to live. The mother and babies, shortly after their birth, are shown above. A. P. photo.

INFANT SURVIVES QUADRUPLE BIRTH

Other Brothers and Sister Succumb; Oxygen Administered.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 4.—(P)—A tiny survivor of a quadruple birth in a southeast Missouri log cabin held her own tonight while doctors worked to save her.

Lee Earl Bridges was "resting well" in her incubator with a 50-50 chance to live. She was fed breast milk, glucose and a few drops of water.

A sister, Ella Pearl Bridges, gave up the unequal struggle at 4:45 a. m. today in the adjoining incubator.

The two were sped to Memphis by ambulance Tuesday from the home near Senath, Mo., where they were born Monday night to Mr. and Mrs. James Bridges, a sharecropper couple.

Mrs. Bridges, 35, gave birth to quadruplets during a cold, driving rainstorm that swept the cypress swamps. A country doctor, 68-year-old Frederick William Speidel, delivered them in the light of a flickering oil lamp. He anointed each with warm hog grease and placed them in bed beside the mother. A few hours later, two of them, a boy and a girl, died, apparently of exposure.

An ambulance sped there from Memphis carrying Miss Ruth Treadway, a trained nurse. She administered oxygen during the trip back to Memphis.

Miss Treadway remained on duty tonight with the surviving patient.

Three Take Stand. Three witnesses were called by the state yesterday before court recessed until 9 o'clock this morning.

The first was Dr. Frank Neuffer, of 144 Ponce de Leon avenue, who was an interne at St. Joseph's infirmary and pronounced Guy dead on arrival when he was brought there by Mrs. Guy and Cuttiff on the night of the murder. The second was an embalmer who prepared Guy's body for burial. He identified the clothing worn by the "murderer" as same operator. They were bloodstained. The third was Mrs. Guy.

Department of Justice ballistics experts and John B. Winn, of the identification bureau of Fulton county, are expected to be called today by the state to testify that the bullet which killed Guy was similar to a bullet found in a pine tree in Alabama near Birmingham, which it is charged was fired from the same gun by Fluker.

Jimmie Rosenfeld, convicted slayer of Lester V. Stone, probably will be called today also.

Fluker's attorney, Frank Neuffer, told the jury the state expects to prove that Fluker shot Guy with a gun borrowed from a friend, and that this same gun fired the bullet into the pine tree near Birmingham, which it is charged was fired from the same gun by Fluker.

Fluker was shot, and that she picked him from a lineup at the police station; that Fluker never saw Guy clearly in a good light when her husband was shot, and that she picked him from a lineup at the police station; that Fluker never saw Guy clearly in a good light when her husband was shot, and that she picked him from a lineup at the police station.

Turner said the defense will seek to prove Fluker never saw Guy did not know him, had no knowledge concerning him, and he was not in Atlanta at the time of the slaying. He intimated also that the reward offered by the widow and Cuttiff led to Fluker's arrest without sufficient evidence.

Mrs. Guy, quietly dressed in black with a silver fur, was calm as she described her husband's death. Fluker was seated at a table near by.

His eyes seldom left her face as she testified. He showed no emotion when she identified him as Guy's murderer.

Mrs. Guy's Testimony. Mrs. Guy described in detail the surroundings of the Guy home on Pelham road as Boykin questioned her. She said she and her husband were leaving their home at about 7:30 o'clock on the night of April 23, 1935, and that a furniture repair man and her cook were in the house when they went out to the car parked in the driveway. She called to the cook to turn on the driveway light, she said.

After they entered the car, she said, she saw a man suddenly appear in the window of the car opposite the steering wheel, and right beside her. Guy was at the wheel.

"I thought it was someone to see my husband until a large, dark automatic pistol came into view," she testified. "Then I thought we were being robbed and I fell over toward my husband and tried to get my rings off my fingers to save my jewelry."

"The man, whom I saw clearly in the light from a 100-watt bulb burning over the driveway and from the lights in the house, said: 'Eddie, you got coming to you,' and fired. I heard only one shot."

$2,223 Found in Car. Boykin brought out the fact that Guy's roll of money amounted to $2,223, was found on the floor of the car and was blood stained. Mrs. Guy said her husband also thought a robbery was in progress and had attempted to hide his cash and jewelry.

The solicitor general asked Mrs. Guy if the man in the window fired at the time. She replied affirmatively.

"Have you ever seen that man since?" he asked. "Yes, I have," the widow answered. "In a police line-up with six or seven other men. 'Do you know where he is now?' was the solicitor's next question."

"He is in the courtroom," said Mrs. Guy. "I saw him there, and he is the one with the gray suit on."

Almost immediately after, court took recess. Returning, Mrs. Guy again told the stand that she identified photographs of the grounds of her Pelham road residence, and explained how the man had appeared at the car.

Turner, in cross-examination, questioned her closely as to why the man she said had hidden in the shrubbery had come to her side in the car when the bushes were next to Guy's side.

Mrs. Guy testified, in reply to Turner, that no effort was made to rob her and her husband after the man had been fired by the man at the car.

Return of Rosenfeld. The defense lawyer asked her if she had seen the man to bring Jimmie Rosenfeld back from New York, where he was captured after the slaying, and she said she had not, but finally admitted that her attorney, Swift Tyler, had done so.

"Didn't you tell newspaper reporters and police officers right after the killing that a short, stocky man had been seen near the car?" he asked.

She denied the interviews to reporters and also that she had described the killer to police. Turner questioned her then attempted to bring out her husband's statement that he and fat had been "suspected" and brought back. She said "it was in connection with the case" and her attorney wanted information from him.

She admitted that she had named a man "resembling

CAMP SAYS BALLOTS EXPRESSED GRATITUDE

U. S. Attorney Says People Are To Be Congratulated on Election Outcome.

The people of the United States are to be congratulated for their display of gratitude in re-electing President Roosevelt, District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp said yesterday. Commenting on the Roosevelt avalanche, the United States attorney declared: "The people of the United States are to be congratulated upon displaying the greatest of all human virtues, gratitude. The outcome constitutes an overwhelming approval of a government operated for the benefit of the people and, in my opinion, destroys forever the possibility of a national administration in the interest of money. It is truly not the victory of President Roosevelt or the Democratic party, but the victory of the people of the United States."

NO NEW LIGHT SHED ON ASHLEY KILLING

Police, After Inquest, Con- tinue Consideration of Robbery Theory.

A verdict of death "at the hands of a person or persons unknown" was returned yesterday morning in the death of Carl V. Ashley, watchman, following an inquest by Coroner Paul R. Donegan. After the inquest, police reconsidered a robbery motive in connection with the death of Ashley, who was found Tuesday morning in front of 31 Rawson street, S. W., his jugular vein severed.

J. V. Ashley, a son of the slain man, testified at the inquest, held at the mortuary of J. Austin Dillon, that his father had a "fairly large amount" of cash in his wallet when he saw him the day before.

The wallet was missing when police found Ashley's lifeless body.

Girl Returns to Home Sans Pin in Lung

A 9-year-old Birmingham girl left Atlanta yesterday afternoon minus a long pin—in her lung—but feeling a lot better about her safety. Little Jacqueline Carter was brought to Atlanta several weeks ago and soon had the eyes of the city focused on her as she became the subject for a miracle of modern surgery. X-rays showed a long pin deeply embedded in her right lung, in a dangerous position. Surgeons at the Ponce de Leon Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat hospital, using specially-made instruments, cut the pin in three pieces, then with other special instruments, removed it from her lung.

A slight attack of pneumonia followed from the strain on her lungs, but she rallied quickly and was on her way back home yesterday.

BROKERS' RECORDS ORDERED IN COURT

Livingston and Company Books To Be Combed for Bradley Transactions.

Books and records of Livingston & Company, showing the trading operations of Benjamin R. Bradley before his American Bond & Share Corporation went bankrupt, will be brought into federal district court Saturday morning for examination by Bradley's receivers.

Clem Satterthwaite, former resident manager of the investment house; Percy Fonville, a bookkeeper for the firm; Miss Carolyn Lucas, who was Bradley's nurse when he spent three weeks in an Atlanta hospital; and C. R. Dawson, one of the auditors of the bankrupt Bradley corporation, have been summoned along with the records.

The order signed by Judge E. Marvin Underwood enjoins anyone from removing or destroying any of the Bradley records and calls for a hearing next Monday before Bankruptcy Referee Harry Dodd, when the four persons named in the petition will be interrogated.

Bradley did most of his trading with Livingston & Company and the receivers are seeking a full accounting of his transactions in an effort to trace funds which accountants have been unable to uncover. Bradley, at a hearing last week, gave receivers little information as to his operations and the search will be conducted now without Bradley's help.

NAZARENES OPEN STATE ASSEMBLY

Georgia District Superin- tendent To Be Elected at Session Today.

Voicing high praise for the work of pastors and laymen of the Church of the Nazarene, Dr. J. R. Chapman, of Kansas City, Mo., general superintendent of the church, opened the annual Nazarene assembly for the Georgia district at the First Nazarene church here yesterday.

The highlight of today's business sessions will be the election of a district superintendent for Georgia. The Rev. P. P. Belew has held this position for a number of years. A delegation from Trevecca Nazarene College at Nashville will visit Atlanta during the assembly to formulate plans for moving the college to Atlanta.

The annual pre-assembly district women's missionary convention was conducted here Tuesday. Speakers at this convention were Miss Anna Lee Cox, returned nurse and missionary from Africa, and Dr. Chapman.

WATKINS RELATES BAR BODY PLANS

Lawyers Can Halt Dishonest Practice, Attorney Tells Citizens.

Dishonest practices by lawyers can be eliminated by Georgia attorneys themselves, Edgar Watkins, Atlanta attorney, told members of the Civitan Club yesterday.

In his address Mr. Watkins related plans of the Georgia Bar Association to incorporate the bar by a legislative act, under which every practicing attorney in the state would be compelled to become a member of the incorporated body and would be subject to its discipline.

Mr. Watkins declared some lawyers of the state are guilty of dishonest "border line" practices, with the help and solicitation of businessmen who do not take the code of the state into account when seeking an end.

Included in this category are cases presented involving "an accident when none occurred, an injury where none exists and a client where there is none," the attorney told Civitan members.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO ANDERSON HYDEN

Stricken with a heart attack while at work at the American Cigar Company, 410 Marietta street, N. W., Anderson R. Hyden, 60, of 909 West Howard avenue, Decatur, a machinist, died late Tuesday afternoon.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, J. P. and R. P. Hyden; two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Rogers and Mrs. W. W. Reinhardt; and two sisters, Mrs. P. G. Young and Mrs. M. P. Warren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon, with the Rev. T. G. Davis and Jack Penn officiating. Burial will be in Magnolia cemetery.

CO-OPERATIVES' ORIGIN TO BE LECTURE TOPIC

Speaking on the origin and causes of the first co-operatives and their establishment in England and Sweden, Professor W. P. Steinhilber will deliver the second lecture on "Consumers' Co-operatives" at 7:30 o'clock to-night in Room 408, Commercial Night school.

This series of lectures is sponsored by the joint educational committee of automobile, brewery, millinery and textile workers unions affiliated with the Atlanta Federation of Trades in co-operation with the Works Progress Administration educational department.

Key and Wilson Split; Tilt's Cause a Mystery

Cause of a caustic oral tilt between Mayor Key and Councilman Frank Wilson, for four years Key's garage committee chairman, remained a matter of conjecture last night.

The pair were vociferous in their exchange, which terminated as follows: 1. Wilson stalked out of the executive offices in a huff, dictated his resignation as committee chairman, and had it deposited on Key's desk.

2. Key, also in a huff, tore the letter to shreds, which he deposited in a conveniently located wastebasket.

Neither would comment on the matter except to say it was a difference over policies.

SPENDING WON VOTE, DECLARES TAMMAGEGovernor, in Statement, Attributes Roosevelt Victory to Money Flow.

The smashing victory of President Roosevelt in Tuesday's election was due to the largest expenditures of the New Deal and the employment of additional voters by the national administration, Governor Tammage said yesterday.

In a prepared statement he also expressed regret over the failure of the proposed amendment to the constitution limiting taxes.

The statement follows:

"Well, the general election is over. I am looking at the paper. It states that Roosevelt carried 46 states. This was certainly a landslide, but was exactly the estimate that Jim Farley, campaign manager and chairman of the Democratic party, stated three weeks ago would be the result. 'One is not surprised at the result when he will analyze the campaign issues.'"

"The New Deal has caused a great many laws very different from any we ever had in the past. Most of these laws provided for a distribution of property to the individual, cities, counties and states. In a great many instances it was given to school districts."

"Of course the handling of these billions of dollars by different organizations of the states, counties and cities and school districts made friends for the New Deal."

"The old-age pension and relief measures also made millions of friends for the New Deal."

"To carry on the program of the New Deal, it required the employment of hundreds of thousands of additional help on the part of the federal government. This, too, made friends for the New Deal."

"The Republican party, under the leadership of Landon, did not take issue with the New Deal, but promised to carry it on. Of course, when they took this position, the result was inevitable."

"Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected president for four years. Mr. Garner is re-elected vice president."

"President Roosevelt has a wonderful opportunity to render great service to the people of this country."

"The supreme court has been his best friend. They revealed laws that would have wrecked any man's political fortunes. The repeal of these laws made possible his re-election."

"It is the duty of every citizen of the United States to carry out all constitutional laws. It is equally the duty of every citizen to test the constitutionality of any law if he believes the same to be unconstitutional."

"When laws are promulgated by those in authority and at the head of the government, it also helps the people."

"I also notice that all the constitutional amendments were defeated with the exception of the one providing for a change in the routine of the supreme court, and providing for the removal of judges."

"I regret very much that the 13-mill overall limitation amendment was defeated. This was one time that the people had it in their hands to manage the tax levy. They decided that it was best not to place a limitation on it."

"I hope that this limitation can come up at some future time and be voted on."

Kappa Phi.

Twenty Georgia Tech seniors were honored Tuesday by election to Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic fraternity. Among these are included 10 Atlantans.

From the aeronautical engineering department, R. H. Fagan, of Morganza, Pa., was selected. S. K. Neill, of Forest, Miss., was named from architecture. Electives from other departments are: John W. Clegg and S. S. Kuniansky, both of Atlanta, chemical engineering students; J. B. Ruckley, civil engineer, of Atlanta; M. Kuniansky and W. E. Wallace, electrical engineers, of Atlanta; Dave Long, Jack McKinnon and Carl Waits, general science seniors, of Atlanta, and Dave Emmert, of Tulsa, Okla.; Allen Jensen, Chicago; Irving Lipton, Atlanta, and J. H. Powell, Navasota, Texas, from the mechanical engineering department.

Six students were selected from the co-operative department: J. E. Carter, Lenox; Joe Corral, Tampa, Fla.; W. R. Johnson, Eureka, Kan.; J. A. Potter, Atlanta; W. C. Norton, Meridian, Miss., and R. A. Hudson, of Macdon. Phi Kappa Phi was organized for the purpose of promoting scholarship and activities among college students.

MRS. G. P. DONALDSON PASSES AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. Harriett L. Donaldson, 63, wife of George D. Donaldson, well known grocer, died yesterday morning at a private hospital, following a brief illness.

Mrs. Donaldson, a native of Gwinnett county, came to Atlanta in 1896, following her marriage. She was active in Methodist church affairs. Her residence was on Roswell road.

Besides her husband, surviving are two sons, Hugh and Hollie Donaldson; three sisters, Mrs. R. E. Minor, Mrs. C. L. Reid and Mrs. W. O. Leftwich, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. J. S. Donaldson.

Final rites will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Sardis Methodist church, with the Rev. W. F. Burdette officiating. Burial will be in Sardis cemetery, under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

COLLEGE CATHOLICS PLAN SESSIONS HERE

The Georgia Tech Newman Club will be host to the fifth annual convention of the southeast province of college Catholic clubs, to be held at the Biltmore hotel the week-end of November 21. The convention will be a three-day affair, opening Friday with the registration of delegates, and closing on the Sunday with a communion breakfast.

Arrangements have been completed to accommodate delegates from the universities of Florida, Georgia, Alabama and the Florida State College for Women.

Charles Bantz, Tech alumnus, is president of the convention. The social activities of the convention will climax with a banquet and dance, to be held on Saturday night. In the afternoon, delegates will witness the Tech-Florida football game.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys
Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, uric, uric, uric under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

'Street Corner Sale' Racket Cited
As Lottery Sentence Is Reinstated

From selling street corns to news vendors through a 15-year career of rackets and tilts with the law until he reached the heights of "big shot" in the local lottery game—

That's the career of Bailey Lovinger as traced by Judge Jesse M. Wood in Fulton criminal court yesterday when he revoked Lovinger's suspended 12-month chain gang sentence for violation of the lottery law and sent him to the gang.

"Through the 15 years I have known you, Lovinger, you have been a racketeer all that time, the judge said. First, you sold street corners to news vendors for 20 cents and beat up any intruders with baseball bats. Then you expanded your racket to take in liquor selling, and finally you seemingly reached a goal in the lottery business. Your career has been one tussle with the law after another."

Lovinger and a negro helper, J. C. Watts, were found guilty on a lottery charge in Fulton criminal court September 21. Judge Wood fined Lovinger $250 and gave him a 12-month chain gang sentence to be suspended on payment of the fine. Watts was fined $50 and sentenced to six months on the gang, this sentence also to be suspended on payment of the fine. Both fines were paid.

Last week DaKalb police arrested Lovinger during a raid on a lottery headquarters house where adding machines and other equipment valued at $800 were seized. Hence, Lovinger's recall before Judge Wood.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck yesterday issued a statement expressing gratification over the re-election of President Roosevelt and his own re-election as the representative of the fifth Georgia district in the lower house.

He declared that in the next four years the party would make an effort to balance the budget and pledged himself to push vigorously his plans for extension of civil service. The statement follows:

"I am deeply grateful to the Democrats of the fifth district for the overwhelming victory accorded to me in yesterday's election. In appreciation I shall endeavor to give the people of the district every possible service and to justify their faith not only in myself but in the Democratic party."

"The victory of President Roosevelt is most gratifying. To me it means that our nation will go forward for the next four years with the assurance of a better distributed prosperity, one in which our people will share more generally and from which no one need have any fear."

"I am quite sure the Democratic administration in the next four years will make every effort to balance the budget as soon as it can be done without bringing suffering to those who are still unemployed."

"In the next Congress I expect to vigorously push the extension of civil service to all positions with the exception of those dealing with policies, and including all postmasters. The President favors such legislation and the Democratic platform included such a plank."

FLORISTS' CONVENTION OPENED AT BILTMORE

Southeastern Group, With 500 Delegates, in Session for Three Days.

Approximately 500 delegates from southeastern states opened the annual convention of the Southeastern Florists' Association at the Biltmore hotel yesterday. Sessions will continue through tomorrow night.

The convention was opened with an address of welcome by Congressman Robert Ramspeck to which Peter A. Chopin, past president of the association, responded. The morning and afternoon sessions yesterday were devoted to soil clinics and discussions of growers' problems.

Schools in arrangement of decorations and style for weddings and other affairs will be conducted today, it was announced. Tonight, as last night, there will be a dance for the delegates. The convention will be closed with a banquet tomorrow night.

THE PATH AHEAD

So amazing was the sweep of the Democratic victory in Tuesday's balloting that it is difficult as yet to visualize clearly its full significance.

Never before in the history of the nation has a party dominated the federal, state and local governments to so great an extent. In the face of expectations that the Democratic majority in congress would be decreased, even in the event of a landslide for Roosevelt, large gains were registered in both the house and the senate, and a new record established in the number of Democratic governors and mayors throughout the country.

Inevitably, the expansion of Democratic domination will bring larger responsibilities and with them new dangers and pitfalls that must be successfully avoided if the trust so overwhelmingly placed by the voters in the hands of the party is administered in a manner fair and just to all the people and to the welfare of the nation's industrial and business interests.

The avalanche of votes cast for the Democratic ticket Tuesday represented every phase of political thought in the country. The swelling forces of Democracy were joined by thousands of progressive Republicans and other thousands of independent voters who have supported first one and then the other of the two major parties.

This great combination of voters reflects the spirit of sound and progressive Americanism—the spirit under which our hardy forefathers carved a nation out of the wilderness and created a government under which both property and human rights are safeguarded.

But other voters, reflecting shades of political thought both dangerous and un-American, saw the coming Democratic sweep and joined the triumphant march of the party.

These extremists—ranging from parlor pinks to reds openly aligned with the destructive forces of Communism—may easily become a serious threat to the success of the Democratic administration and the welfare of the country.

Masters of subversive activity and the exponent of radical ideas, they will seek, if not rigidly checked, to gain a position where they might even challenge not only the congress, but the President himself. Under the guise of "reformers" they will endeavor to bring about the adoption of unsafe and un-American policies and doctrines.

The dyed-in-the-wool reformer, from the "cap and gown" type to the scheming politician of radical bent, never quits, and congress and the administration must keep constant vigilance to protect the government, the people and business from their schemings.

With the President at the helm there will be assurance that, however serious their challenge, these extremists will not be permitted to throw a monkey wrench into the machinery either of government or business.

During the early days of the present administration, when the critical conditions faced made it necessary to formulate experimental policies, some of these parlor pinks crept into the groups around the President—but neither they nor their theories lasted long.

In his campaign speech at Syracuse two weeks ago, the President emphatically assured the country that "I have not sought, I do not seek, I repudiate the support of any advocate of Communism or of any other alien 'ism' which would by fair means or foul change our American democracy. That is my position; it always has been my position; it always will be my position."

Some of the policies experimentally adopted during the early months of the Roosevelt administration failed. Others served a good emergency purpose in aiding the rescue of the nation from its prostrate economic condition, but would now be more harmful than beneficial.

No one knows this better than the President and should the parlor pinks, or any other type of extremists masquerading under the guise of "reformers" attempt to bring about their reinstatement, there can be no doubt that the President, in keeping with his pledge, will put a quick and definite end to their activities.

With the country out of the chaos and confusion of the depression and again well on the way to full prosperity, the only course ahead for the administration is to return the government as quickly as possible to a condition of normalcy.

To that end, President Roosevelt pledged himself in his campaign speeches, although promising that the great humanitarian principles of the social security program should be pushed. With that assurance, the people of the country may feel confident that the extremists will have no part in the formulation of the policies of the administration, nor in the fulfilling of the platform promises adopted at the Philadelphia convention.

WINE-BEER SALES RESTRICTED
Council is to be commended for the enactment of ordinances designed to strengthen the regulations on the sale of wines and beers.

The laxity of the restrictions contained in the state law has resulted in the development of serious evils incident to the sale of these alcoholic beverages and, as has been emphasized recently by law enforcement and court officials, it was necessary that teeth, in the form of local regulations, be put into the law.

Many of the wine and beer parlors, especially those in the outlying sections of the city, have been kept open until the early morning hours. Not only has this proven an encouragement to drunkenness, but these places have proven nuisances to the neighborhoods in which they are located. One of the ordinances passed by council puts a reasonable curfew of midnight on the sale of wine and beer, although allowing the establishments to remain open for other sales.

Another ordinance bars youths under 21 years of age from being employed in wine and beer parlors, which will put an end to the evil which finds boys and girls from 12 years up serving alcoholic drinks to intoxicated men and women. Council also instructed the police to exert greater efforts in seeing to it that the state law forbidding the sale of wine and beer to minors is observed.

The inadequate regulations and loose enforcement efforts have brought about conditions that must be brought to an end. The ordinances passed by council make this easily possible.

The county commission has already taken steps to eliminate similar objectionable conditions in outlying beer and wine parlors, and with the proper diligence on the part of the city and county police forces the sale of these beverages can be conducted in an orderly manner, without threat to the welfare of boys and girls, as is now the case, and without the places in which they are sold being nuisances to the law-abiding people of the city.

Hitler and Il Duce may play along together, but we don't know. It has been found that one Dizzy Dean is too many for the Cards.

Next to being an amateur paper-hanger, perhaps the most dangerous pursuit known to man is amateur soldiering in Spain.

A New York publisher advertises for a college track man to run errands. It could also place a weight-lifter, to handle manuscripts of the "Anthony Adverse" order.

It is estimated there are 600,000 tap dancers in the United States alone. If laid end to end, the tenant downstairs could sleep.

World's Window

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Youth Demands A Place.

In nearly every country in Europe you can witness mighty youth movements. Youth wants to play a role, wants to exercise its influence on the evolution of things. This leads some observers to pessimistic thoughts and makes them feel that nothing good can come of a conflict between youth and the mature, in society.

But this contradiction is nothing new. A little note dug up in Egypt and dating from 1500 B. C., indicates that the contradiction between old and young was felt no less in those far-off days. In that little papyrus document a father calls his son unwise and tells him that the old and the young are at odds, and the father is saying that his father is old-fashioned and conservative.

The point is that the elders know the value of "acquisitions" both in a material and spiritual sense. With difficulty and struggle they have acquired their social position, their religious point of view and their political convictions.

The younger generations do not know the value yet of "acquisitions." Therefore, they are critical of the older generation and speak of it without respect often.

The contradiction between old and young can be seen as the difference between priest and prophet. The first is the defender and the protector of tried values and truths. The second is a precursor of what is to come.

When young men feel something for ideals, they feel very intensely. They are incapable of compromise. The older generation knows that compromise is necessary. They take men and conditions as they find them. They have learned to be supple and to bend to circumstances.

The young are characterized by expectation. They represent the morning side of life, development and growth. The older represent the evening side of life. They acquire easier and look back meditatively. Youth is impetuous in its enterprise, wants to succeed at once and right away. Men of ripe age have come to the realization with the preacher that the crooked cannot be made straight so quickly.

But does this all mean that there must be conflict between the young and the old? Certainly not. If only it is realized on both sides that both youth and mature age are different parts of the same body of humanity. Without youth, there would be no progress. Everything would be left as it is. But without the sagacity of the elders there would be no stability. In some of the old conferences I attended, the speakers jumped from one subject to the other and got excited over things that seemed to them of world-importance, but which had lost all importance a few weeks later.

The correct relationship between old and young we find in the story of Eli and Samuel. When God speaks to the young man, he hears the voice. But Eli from his side can tell the young man how to react to the divine voice.

Youth is more intuitive and open to life. The elders counsel them for they are rich with experience. If that is kept in mind, both old and young will see that the ideas and aspirations of both generations grow from the same root and are, in the final analysis, tending in the same direction.

Talmudic Tales

By DAVID MORANTZ.

Number 458.
(Based upon the legends and philosophy found in the Talmud, which work contains the Jewish laws, customs and traditions of the Jewish people, dating back as far as 3,000 years.)

THE WISDOM OF BEN SIRA.

On the subject of etiquette, Ben Sira says:
"Sitteth thou at the table of the great, and be not greedy upon it."
And say not, many are the things upon it.

Stretch not thine hand whithersoever it (the eye) looketh.
And thrust not thy hand into the dish. Consider thy neighbor's like by own; and be discreet in every point.

Eat as becometh a man those things which are set before thee.
And eat not greedily, lest thou be hated.
Be first to leave off for manners' sake.
And be not insatiable, lest thou offend.

And if thou sittest among many, Reach not out thy hand before them. However, be also felt that nothing should interfere with one enjoying himself to the limit at a feast. And here are a few of his pungent thoughts on that subject:

"Rebuke not thy neighbor at a banquet of wine."
Neither set him at naught in his mirth.
Speak not unto him a word of reproach.
And press not upon him by asking him back a debt."

Nevertheless he discouraged indulgence to excess in wine in these words:
"Show not thyself valiant in wine; For wine hath destroyed many."
Drunkenness increaseth the rage of a food unto his hurt.
It diminisheth strength and addeth wounds."

Due to the extensive interest in Talmudic Tales, 128 of the legends and over 500 Pearls of Wisdom have been collected in an attractive book of 100 pages, bound in a handsome, grained blue vellum cloth, with gold-stamped title. Autographed by author. Suitable for gifts or prizes. Price $1.50 post paid. Address orders to "Talmudic Tales," care The Atlanta Constitution.

Machine Age Father.

The Rev. Edmund Cartwright, introducer of the machine age, died, aged 80, in 1823. An English rector with a mechanical mind who devised important improvements in agricultural machinery, he visited Sir Richard Arkwright's cotton-spinning mills and there got the idea for a weaving machine. He patented the first power loom next year when he was 42. He was surprised and sorrowed by riots which broke out among workers in Doncaster and Manchester when the labor-saving device was installed in mills. Nevertheless, he turned his mind to development of a wood-working machine and a steam engine fed by alcohol, and to collaboration with Robert Fulton in the development of steam navigation. From all these he benefited little, and was dependent in his later years upon a government dole.

Legal Sex Reversal.

The child who was to become King Ferdinand of Portugal a century ago this year, was born in Hungary in 1816. Princess Kohary was his father. Prince Ferdinand was Kohary's mother. The princess was the only child of Prince Franz, richest man in Hungary. To get around a law which barred a daughter from inheriting his immense fortune, Franz had the princess legally declared a man, and before they were married, Ferdinand given the legal standing of a woman.

Civic Theater For Atlanta.

A combination of professional and non-professional players is being organized in Atlanta for presentation of the better type of stage plays and indications are that this movement contains the germ of what may easily become the most serious and successful step yet taken toward a recrudescence of local interest in the living drama.

From Edwin Haas Jr. comes a careful of information. He states: "Considerable progress has been made in the organization of the Civic Theater Guild and the WPA Federal theater. The WPA officials have been busy working out the mechanics of operation, and a second professional personnel for this project."

The advisory board for the Civic Theater Guild has met with the officials and agreed upon a system of utilizing professional and non-professional groups in close co-operation. This board consists of the following members: Henry Tompkins, Mrs. Ford McKee, Raymond Kline, Mrs. Murdock Egan, Dr. W. W. Memminger, J. J. Haverly, Guy Woodford, Walter Hill, George Linder, Major General George Van Horn Moseley, Mrs. J. M. Sloan and Edwin Haas.

The Civic Theater Guild has a splendid play in rehearsal, and it is expected that this will be the first production to be offered when organization of the Civic Theater Guild is complete.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

A NEW PARTY?

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—They talk of a new party. After every election, the experts always say, in the first flush of exciting post-election returns, that a thorough realignment of the old schools is in order. Four years ago, the Republican party was talked into the grave. "Eight, 12 and 16 years ago, the tons of speculative words buried both parties."

Now the avalanche is conjuring the idea that both parties are dead. The Rooseveltites are saying that the President, encouraged by his reelection, will go forward with a sweeping program. They say that NRA, AAA and all the other alphabetical agencies are child's play, as compared with what he intends to do.

The best judgment is President Roosevelt will not disturb any vital policy. He may annoy the disciples of private and public utility holding companies, and a few others, but the self-generative forces of business improvement, they say, will override any specific reforms that he has in mind.

The President's best friends have been saying the first thing he would do would be to balance the budget, not probably this year, but next year, or in the following years of his term. They say he could curtail expenditures far better than Landon could and that the ultimate effect of his policy would be far more conservative than those of his antagonists.

In fact, his closest friends insist that his policy, while verbally antagonistic, will be co-operative along the lines which the electorate dictated. Mr. Roosevelt is not a new party, but an amazing personality. He has been able to get and hold the support of many divergent elements (Conservatives, progressives, radicals, bankers and idealists), but he has not been able to weld them together. They are held together behind him, not behind his party, solely by the presence and position of Mr. Roosevelt.

If there were anyone else in his movement capable of continuing such an extremely unbalanced and incohesive movement, there might be a practical chance for Mr. Roosevelt to found what would be called a new party based on the old Democratic party. But no comparable leader has arisen in his camp. Furthermore, no one leader in his camp represents exactly the same thing he does. For example, there are Hull and Tugwell, Farley and Licks, etc., etc. No one can imagine any of these men following the leadership of the other if Mr. Roosevelt's personality and position were eliminated from consideration.

The natural tendency of government in the next four years will be toward curtailment of expenditures. The curtailment will not be sharp. But Mr. Roosevelt has built most of the dams and works projects which come within the line of reason. His works expansion has really gone far beyond existing needs, so the government will not have much to build. Furthermore, improving business will absorb the unemployed to such an extent that the President cannot possibly spend as much as he has spent.

Therefore, aside from the theoretical prospects of a new party, there are certain actual practical considerations which will work strongly against it.

The first consideration is the fact that the President has built more of an organization than he can handle. He has, for instance, encouraged northern negroes to vote for him in the same ballot box with southern Democrats. He has convinced a Morgan partner (Mr. Leffingwell) that the Roosevelt cause was superior, at the same time that he drew votes from the scholastic followers of President Roosevelt. In other words, he has built up for himself an organization which is top-heavy on both sides and which requires his unusual judgment to solidify. Indeed, there are those who suspect that the opposing poles in his camp are so far apart that they cannot be drawn together.

Chairman Farley believes, as all practical politicians do, in the material products of conciliation. From government expenditures, jobs and studies, he has built up an organization which many a Farley's force is the fact that no one has been able to offer so much before, and undoubtedly no one will be able to offer so much again.

What it all means, boiled down, is that the President probably reached the apex of his importance from these sources on Tuesday, and that further developments of the formation of a thoroughly class party are unencouraging.

STARS As the foremost disciples of Mr. Roosevelt outline it, the prospects are that he will be content with his victory; that the remainder in his present unsettled state; that stock prices will remain generally about the same and that business will continue to improve.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

The Democrats won, I'm feeling great,
But I wish we could Take every state.

Some Folks Never Satisfied.

I suppose it is the eternal quest for perfection and feel a little ashamed of the idea, but this morning can't help playing around with the thought of how nice it would be if Vermont and Maine could, by some miracle, come into the Democratic column too. To all the states, Mr. Roosevelt, I would, at least, have kept his head and shoulders dry.

The umbrella was one of those feminine affairs of bright color and eccentric handle. He looked at it. "No, thanks," he said. "I couldn't be seen carrying a thing like that."

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Sunday, November 5, 1911:
"The extension of the Great White Way on certain of the downtown business blocks seems now assured. The people on a number of blocks have canvassed for the signatures among themselves, and the necessary equipment of the system complete ready for the electric current."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Friday, November 5, 1886:
"Mr. Allen King and Mrs. Rosefield were married in Irwin county a few days ago. Mr. King is past his three score and ten years, and this is his fifth time to enter into wedlock, and the bride is about fifty-five years of age. A classic before Selkirk died, some of whom are about grown."

Original Crusoe.

Alexander Selkirk, 28-year-old Scotch seaman of rebellious temperament, ended a series of quarrels with the captain of his ship by being put ashore on Juan Fernandez island off Chile, in the Pacific, at his own request. His experiences there until he was discovered and taken off by a few days ago, suggested to Daniel Defoe, London journalist, the first best-selling serial. It became the best-selling novel of all time, "Robinson Crusoe." The story, first published in 1719, bore a close resemblance to Selkirk's life. The story he wrote himself about his experiences was too dull for the book to sell.

Gave Away Kingdom.

Charles II of Spain died in 1700, after having given away his entire kingdom to a young French Bourbon prince who was not a relative and whom he had never seen. The prince became Philip.

Miser's Castle.

John Camden Neild lived like a miser all his life in Scotland, sleeping on the floor, wearing rags and subsisting on crusts. When he died he left his fortune to construct a palace for Queen Victoria, who had never heard of him. The palace is Balmoral, Scottish residence of Victoria's royal successors.

FAIRENOUGH

Coughlin Struck

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—True

The Lowest Fools to Mr. Farley's predictions, it was a dirty campaign for a startling novelty in American politics, the lowest fools of all were struck by a clerical dictator identified by his bishop as the voice of God, who called the President the anti-god and cabinet members dogs, threatened to tear a man's heart out, counseled civil war, denounced money changers while changing money with both hands and wrapped the vestments of his office about him as immunity from criticism much more sober than his own. Father Coughlin was too hot for either major party to handle and the papers, too, although constantly resented their time-consuming to his more brutal explosions.

He was unable to go to the gutter and fight him on his home grounds. For one thing, the papers were restrained by tradition and the voice of God, the law of the land and the law of the gutter. Coughlin made his own traditions as he went along and took full advantage of the knowledge that no prudent man would sue him. Libel has come to be a spook at the elbow of every newspaper owner, clanking its chain and by its threat of criticism much more sober than his own. MORE FUNDS SOUGHT FOR BOARD OF HEALTH tion for the board of health, declared the amount spent in Georgia per capita for health work is lower than that in any other southern state. He also asserted the death rate per capita in Georgia from typhoid is the highest of any state in the union.

Ellis Health Law.
Dr. Minchew recited the long efforts of the medical association to bring about the general adoption by the counties of the state of the Ellis health law, and showed the necessity of aroused interest among the business men of the various counties if this is to be accomplished. Only 33 counties have adopted the provisions of the Ellis health law, and the death rate in these counties, Dr. Minchew pointed ed out, is 44 per cent lower than in the counties which have not adopted the health law regulations.

Dr. Minchew cited the long efforts of the physicians of his home county of Ware to bring about the adoption of the health law and stated that only when the co-operation of the business leaders of Waycross and the county was secured were these efforts successful.

Senator Williams, who is editor and publisher of the Waycross Journal-Herald, gave concrete examples of the economic benefits resulting from the cleaning up of adverse health conditions in a community, and emphasized the inequalities of a situation where a state spends more than $25,000,000 a year for highways and education and only $104,000 a year for health. In concluding his talk, he introduced the following resolutions.

Text of Resolutions.

"Whereas, the protection of the public health is indispensable to the common welfare of the state and should be fostered as a primary function of government; and

"Whereas, the beneficent results obtained through the limited expenditures for this purpose cannot be great advantages to be gained by the educational, agricultural and industrial interests of the state through ample support of an adequate public health service; and

"Whereas, the State Board of Health has demonstrated its ability to undertake this highly important task and carry it forward to a successful conclusion; therefore,

"Be it resolved by us here assembled, that we endorse the proposal of the State Board of Health to provide an adequate public health service by increasing the facilities of the state health department to enable it to cope with all emergencies and to render essential technical services, supervision and advice, and to organize the state into a sufficient number of health districts equipped with the necessary medical, sanitation, nursing and clerical personnel; and

"Be it further resolved, that we pledge our active support to this movement and petition the general assembly of Georgia to provide for this health extension program by granting sufficient appropriations to the State Board of Health, beginning with a liberal increase for the year 1937 and gradually increasing this sum annually to defray the costs of health services as rapidly as they can be conservatively developed."

CUBA LIKES RESULTS.

HAVANA, Nov. 4.—(P)—Dr. Manuel Forta Duque, secretary of the treasury, declared tonight that the Cuban people were highly pleased "with the triumph of President Roosevelt because his re-election means the consolidation of the Cuban economic situation."

Greater Public Health Service Is Their Aim

Plans for the expansion and improvement of the public health service in Georgia were the topics of discussion at a luncheon given yesterday at the Capital City Club to business and professional leaders of the state by Robert J. SHIP OWNERS REFUSE TO MEET SEA STRIKERS of Commerce inspectors were taking the names of striking marine engineers contributed to the delay, as the unions sought assurance the action did not mean a "blacklist."

The result of the ship owners' association meeting was disappointing, especially to McGrady, who had hoped to bring the marine engineers and the steam schooner owners together as an entering wedge to break the strike deadlock.

Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper said that his department has turned over negotiation efforts to McGrady.

"Glad to Comply." "Whatever he feels we should do and when we should do it—we would be glad to comply," Roper said in Washington.

The commerce secretary indicated it was up to McGrady to accept or reject the plan. Joseph H. Weaver, director of the marine inspection bureau, to open federal hiring halls for seafaring workers, one of the disputes which led to the strike.

The strike, called last Friday, has affected 35,000 members of the seven marine and dock unions; 1,800 San Francisco warehousemen; Seattle drydock workers, and thousands of loggers, truckers, railroaders packing plant employees and others forced into idleness.

STRIKE CALL SEEN BY N. SEAMEN
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(UP)—One thousand shouting seamen tonight voted unanimously to call a coast-wide conference for Friday which would be expected to order a general strike of seamen and to formulate demands for higher wages and better working conditions.

The men were members of the seamen's union which call the Post-Office "sit down" strike now in progress. The movement on the east coast thus advanced from a sympathy strike for west coast seamen, to become an independent attempt to overthrow union officials and call out all seamen.

Joseph Curran, fighting leader of the defense committee, presented a resolution calling for a meeting Friday of all strike representatives. The resolution empowered them "to act and draw up an agreement with ship owners guaranteeing better wages and working conditions."

"We are not going into any football game or game of marbles," Curran shouted. "We are going into the bitterest fight of our lives and we are going to win."

A thundering roar swept Manhattan Lyceum in answer.

GOVERNMENT MAINTAINS CONTACT IN SHIP STRIKE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(P)—With complications in the carrying of passengers on foreign ships and the dispatch of foreign-bound mail involved, the government today maintained a finger-tip contact with the maritime strike situation.

During the day the Maritime Commission received a personally delivered report on the Pacific coast situation from Huntington T. Morse, aide to Admiral Harry G. Amlie, the commission's representative on the west coast.

John E. Lamiell, director of International Postal Service of the Post-Office Department, said "considerable difficulty" was being encountered in getting mail off for foreign ports. Mail for the Orient was being delayed three or four days and even longer, he said. Much foreign mail is being rerouted by foreign ships.

Loss in the shipping tie-up on all coasts was estimated at $500,000 daily in an unofficial computation by federal shipping experts. They based their estimate on the assumption that approximately 325 vessels now lie idle because of the strike.

Secretary of Labor Perkins was on her way back to Washington today from New York. She maintained contact with Assistant Labor Secretary Edward P. McGrady, the government's chief negotiator at San Francisco.

NEW ORLEANS POLICE ARRESTING SEAMEN
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—(P)—Under instructions from George Reyer, superintendent of police, city officers today moved to clear New Orleans of marine strike pickets and jailed more than a hundred seamen on charges of vagrancy or loitering.

Reyer served notice on the limited group of striking seamen and longshoremen here that no strike violence would be tolerated in the future and his policemen said that if "communist" were found among the men arrested they would be expelled from the city.

Members of two locals struck here along with the crews of a half-dozen ships in sympathy with the maritime strike on the Pacific coast and the ships were tied up in port.

which harassed Madrid in a series of daylight raids.

At the same time Catalonia and Levante announced that they were coming to the aid of the capital's defenders with a mechanized army they calculated was sufficiently strong to crush the Fascists from the rear.

It was stated that the Loyalist airplanes had destroyed Fascist artillery positions and convoys.

An official bulletin reported that Socialists had captured the town of Ventana, in the Cuenca sector, southeast of the capital. Twenty-seven prisoners were taken, the bulletin said.

The government spurred its militia with a manifesto declaring "the whole world is watching your supreme effort."

Appealing to its fighters, patriotism, honor and pride, the government said "Your great moment has arrived. Failure means dishonor, slavery or death. It is better to die standing than to continue to live kneeling."

Anti-aircraft gun crews took a few shots at the Fascist planes which were coming over the city but for the most part the machines stayed well beyond range, apparently intent of merely upsetting the morale of the defenders.

The populace found some hope in a government statement that its militia-men had carried on "an encircling movement on Torrejon de Valasco and on Segovia."

The former is about 17 miles south of Madrid and the latter about 25 miles south.

The government troops were reported to have moved northward from Aranjuez, 28 miles south of Madrid, to strike from the rear at the insurgents hammering the capital.

REBELS CAPTURE MADRID SUBURB
GETAFE, Spain, Nov. 4.—(P)—Two Fascist columns entered Getafe, eight miles from Madrid, at 1:15 p. m. this afternoon after an artillery duel and in the face of intense fusillades from a Socialist rearguard of a few hundred men.

The Socialist militiamen took cover behind houses in the village to protect the retreat of the main body of the defending forces but, still firing, withdrew at 3 p. m.

Gasoline reservoirs on the Getafe airbase caught fire and sent up huge clouds of black smoke.

A handful of deserters from the government forces said that since they were sent to Getafe from Madrid on Sunday they had each received only a piece of sausage.

The capture was effected by two columns, one of which came from Fuenlabrada, in the southwest, and the other from Parla, directly south of here.

ETHIOPIAN QUESTION DODGED BY PHILLIPS
ROME, Nov. 4.—(UP)—William Phillips, now American ambassador to Rome, today presented his credentials to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. The ceremony occurred at the Quirinal palace.

In accordance with a formula worked out some weeks ago, Phillips' letters of credence were addressed only to the "King of Italy," not the "Emperor of Ethiopia," a title which Victor Emmanuel assumed after the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

Thus the United States avoided the delicate diplomatic question of recognizing Italian sovereignty over Ethiopia.

Other newcomers were Carlos Esplá, propaganda, and Jaime Aguirre, minister without portfolio.

Anastasio de Gracia, who held the commerce portfolio in the last ministry, was shifted to labor.

With the battle for possession of the capital deemed to be entering the crucial stage, the government prepared to hurl the full weight of its army against the besiegers in a mighty effort to break through the encroaching Fascist lines.

The government claimed its newly augmented aviation corps had shot down four of the insurgent bombers.

"OUR OUT OF TOWN CAR"

Saves us 3/4 on driving cost FOR EVERY NOVEMBER TRIP"

"JOHN'S firm allows him 6 cents a mile when he drives on company business. But we soon found out he couldn't come out even when it came time to buy tires and have the motor tuned. Now he's using buses for every trip and he looks so much more rested when he gets home after a business trip. John says he got tired of parking the car in strange garages overnight and looking for parking lots every time he had a call to make. He and I have been using buses for our 'out-of-town car' to save money and worry, with fares just a fraction over 1 cent per mile and someone else doing the driving."

MAN IS SHOT, ROBBED ON CAROLINA HIGHWAY

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Nov. 4.—(P)—J. P. Munden, of Weaverville, a salesman for the Norman Packing Company, of Portsmouth, Va., was shot and robbed of $1,000 today at Five Bridges, near Chapinoke.

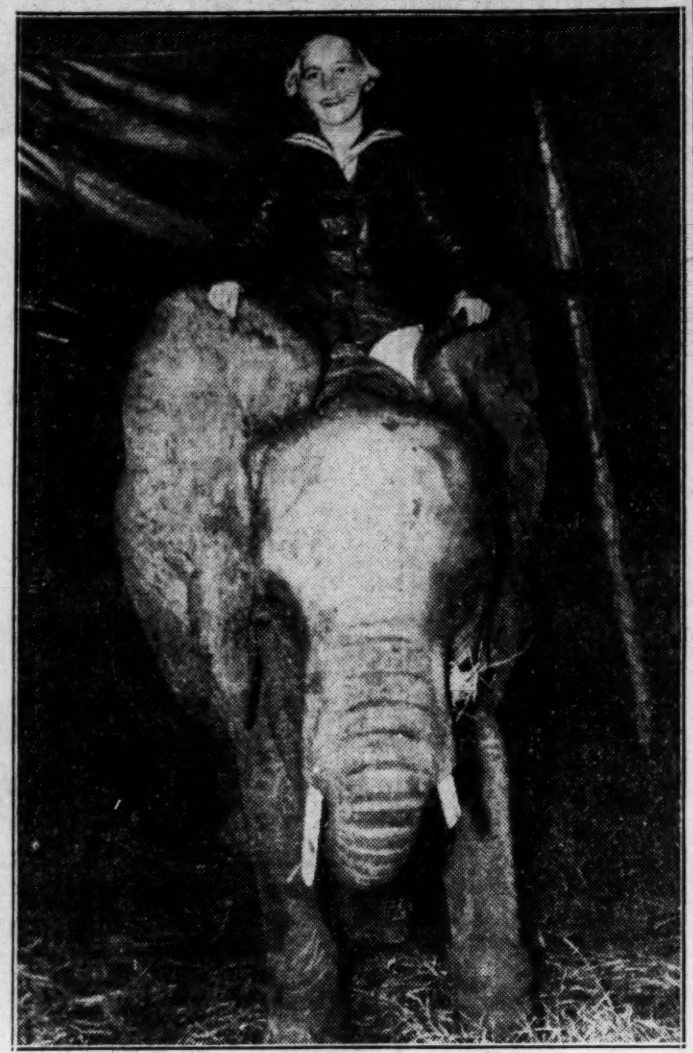

Munden told officers he was held up by a masked bandit in an old coupe with one door missing. John Wells, a stove mender, was arrested at Chapinoke, but Munden at a hospital here could not identify him, Sheriff Charles Carmine said.

Munden said he stopped when the bandit's car blocked the road, and when he offered resistance the masked man shot him in the left arm and robbed him of the $1,000 he had collected from stores along his route.

After he was shot, Munden said, he drove on toward Elizabeth City until he encountered Clarence Long, driving a truck. Long brought the wounded man to the hospital here.

Wells was held pending further investigation.

Riding the Pygmy Elephant at Big Circus

Little Betty Ziegler, 6, of 341 East Harvard avenue, College Park, had a grand time at the circus yesterday afternoon on the back of Bull, a pygmy elephant, who stands no higher than five feet, in spite of being 45 years old. The pygmy herd is a new feature of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, now playing at the Highland avenue grounds. Staff photo by George Cornett.

'Greatest Show on Earth' Goes On Before Huge Crowds, Despite Rain

Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus Presents Spectacular Performances Under Big Top; To Repeat Program Twice Today.

Atlantans donned rubbers and raincoats—instead of "Sunday best"—and went out to the circus yesterday. And the greatest show on earth, the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey show, went on as usual, despite inclement weather.

For it was all there, out at the grounds on Highland avenue, with four trains, 100 double-length steel cars, 1,000 people, 800 performers, seven herds of elephants, the large menagerie, and 700 horses.

Arriving here from Greenville, S. C., at dawn, the little city under canvas was ready by early morning—completely set up from side show tent to the "big top" itself, under which the show goes on.

Crowds Come Early.

Although it was chilly, and a light rain fell, crowds began to arrive early to see the menagerie animals, including this year's new attractions—pygmy elephants and miniature wild jackasses.

Officially the miniature wild jackasses are known as "pongers." They come from India, but little else is known about them. They stand no higher than about 20 inches, and look something like a zebra—without the stripes.

As for the pygmy elephants, there's Bull, who is only about five feet high, in spite of his 45-year age. Nuba is another, 10 years younger than Bull. And then there is 12-year-old Loka, who is slightly bigger than both the others.

They Never Forget.

Yes, and it's true that an elephant never forgets, says Larry Davis, superintendent of elephants. Davis, a veteran trainer and handler of pachyderms, says they never forget a voice or a scent.

"You can be around an elephant constantly for a long period, and then leave and come back, even years later, and he'll remember you all right," Davis said.

Davis is full of interesting lore concerning elephants. Did you know, for instance, an elephant from India has five front toes and four rear toes? In contrast to the African elephant's four toes on front feet, and three toes on the rear feet?

But let's move around the menagerie further. That closed cage contains Sugar, a chimpanzee, and her seven-year-old son, Dizzy Dean—so named because he was born in St. Louis. Due to the cold weather, the cage of the mother and baby could not be opened.

Charlie Turner, in charge of Sugar and little Dizzy, watches over the two most zealously. He kept a stove going in that closed cage, so the chimps would not catch cold, or worse, for they are subject to pneumonia.

Of course, there are the usual giraffes, camels, lions, tigers, hippos, and other animals in the menagerie, under the general supervision of Franz Walska.

But the show is about to begin!

The band strikes up, and the spectacular Durbar of Delhi, in which 2,000 people and scores of animals, take part, is staged. Then comes the real circus performance.

A dazzling array of talent—including world-famous clowns such as Felix Adler and Paul Jerome—goes through paces. Acrobatic trapeze, high wire, animal, all kinds of acts are on view.

Featured performers this year are Dorothy Herbert, famous equestrienne; the Naitto troupe, the Great Yank, the Wallendens troupe, the Maschinos, the Yom Kams, the Spurgats, the Imperial Viennese, the Concellos, with Antoinette; the Otaris, and the Comets, to name but a few.

And the grand finale—Hugo and Mario Zaccini, who are shot out of a cannon, one of the great circus acts of all time.

No Hitch.

The afternoon performance yesterday went off without a hitch, with one exception, and that unnoticed by the audience. Margie Cromley and Martha Wallenda, clad in scant costumes, got a ducking during the equestrienne-statuary act when the fountain in the center ring tipped over too far.

They were good trouper, however, and went through the act without a break in spite of getting wet on a chilly day.

From here the circus moves to Macon, and closes next week in Tampa. It then moves into winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

U.S. FAILS TO RECOGNIZE NEW ETHIOPIAN RULE

ROME, Nov. 4.—(P)—United States Ambassador William Phillips presented his credentials today to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy.

The official documents addressed the Italian ruler only as the "King of Italy" and did not refer to him as "Emperor of Ethiopia."

Dressed in full evening clothes for the afternoon ceremony, Phillips read his address of presentation to the king in the Quirinal palace. The monarch replied in English, assuring the ambassador of co-operation between his government and the United States.

Phillips and his party were driven to the palace in royal carriages, each drawn by four horses. Footmen in red livery were mounted before and behind. Outsiders rode beside the ambassador's carriage.

After the formal ceremony, Phillips presented the embassy staff to the king.

PAYMENT OF U. S. DEBT HINTED BY MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 4.—(P)—A hint that Mexico is contemplating resumption to some degree of payments on her foreign debt, much of it owed in the United States, was contained in a statement by President Lazaro Cardenas to congress yesterday.

He said: "Everything makes us think we are not far from attempting satisfactory revision of our exterior debt."

The statement was made in connection with a request for authorization of a $30,000,000 peso (approximately $13,750,000) loan for railway construction.

An authoritative source said the government was negotiating with its foreign creditors and hopes to get a substantial reduction in its $270,000,000 funded debt as well as a reduction or a possible cancellation of accumulated interest and a lower interest rate for the future.

POLITICAL SCIENCE GROUP TO CONVENE

Three-Day Meeting To Open at Emory University Chapel Tonight.

First session of the Southern Political Science Association will convene at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Emory Theology chapel, led by President David W. Knepper, Mississippi State College for Women. The meeting will be preceded by an opening dinner at Emory University.

The meeting will be featured this year by joint sessions with the Southern Economic Association on "Consequences of the New Deal." The meeting will extend through Saturday, closing at the Hotel Candler with a discussion on "Liberalism in the South," led by Charles W. Pipkin, of Louisiana State University.

Among the speakers will be Charles E. Merriam, president of the American Political Science Association, of the University of Chicago; Louis Brownlow, director of the Public Administration Clearing House; T. C. Bigham, University of Florida, and J. K. Coleman, of the Citadel.

ONTARIO SEEKS CHARGE OF MILLAR'S ESTATE

Provincial Government Will Ask Court for Interpretation of Will's 'Baby Clause.'

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 4.—(UP)—The Ontario government prepared today to possess the entire Charles Vance Millar estate, including the $500,000 he left to Toronto's most prolific mother, in order to create a trust fund for the children of mothers who spent the past 10 years attempting to produce sufficient offspring to win the fortune.

The government will seek an order from Justice W. E. Middleton when he sits Friday to rule on the baby race clause in Millar's will, enjoining Millar's trustees from disposing of any of the estate until special legislation creating the trust fund can be enacted.

The request for an injunction will have to be ruled upon by Justice Middleton before he may act on the question of the validity of the baby race clause.

Millar's will made no mention of care for the children resulting from the strange race he started. The government's proposal would in effect wipe out the will and place the entire estate within the sole jurisdiction of the provincial government.

ROGERS MEMORIAL PLANNED.

FORMER AUGUSTAN SLAIN BY HUSBAND

Estranged Mate Shoots Wife, Kills Himself in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—(P)—A man identified by Detective Lieutenant Miles Ledbetter as C. W. Pelot, shot his wife to death and committed suicide at what the officer said was their first meeting in two years.

The shooting followed an effort at conciliation by Pelot, C. K. Rambo, at whose home Pelot's wife, Nettie, 37, was housekeeper, told the officer. Ledbetter said Pelot followed his wife here from Augusta.

The request for an injunction will have to be ruled upon by Justice Middleton before he may act on the question of the validity of the baby race clause.

Millar's will made no mention of care for the children resulting from the strange race he started. The government's proposal would in effect wipe out the will and place the entire estate within the sole jurisdiction of the provincial government.

GEORGIA AREAS PUSH ROAD BEAUTIFICATION

Projects To Enhance State's Natural Scenic Advantages Get Under Way.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 4.—(P)—Highway and city beautification projects, designed to enhance and improve Georgia's natural scenic advantages, gained momentum in several sections of the state today.

As part of its city-wide beautification plan, this city contemplated a garden contest to arouse interest in the improvement of private property. Macon initiated a similar program several weeks ago under the title "Georgia Gardens" to promote enthusiasm for roadside and home garden development in middle Georgia.

A grape myrtle bordered highway in Macon county already is recognized as a tourist attraction through the center of the state.

Waynesboro, in Burke county, instituted a program for its beautification today with the assistance of Captain W. H. Robertson, superintendent of the park and tree commission of Savannah, who has been asked by Augusta to survey the city's beautification needs.

Savannah will discuss development of another recreation park at a conference Friday, which will be attended by Robert Fechner, directors of emergency conservation work, Washington, and J. H. Gladys, of Atlanta, representative of the National Park Service.

Highway beautification is being given careful consideration by the state highway board in Atlanta, and the movement has been endorsed by the garden clubs in Georgia and other organizations.

Hubert B. Owens, head of the department of landscape architecture of the University of Georgia, Athens, has expressed the opinion that the two most important steps toward roadside improvement in the state are widening of the right-of-way and sloping of unsightly banks into graceful grades to "form the satisfactory transition from artificial man-made pavement to the surrounding natural scenery."

LIVE WIRE CONTACT KILLS COLUMBUS MAN

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 4.—(P)—Contact of tin roofing he was carrying with an 11,000-volt wire on a cotton mill roof here killed Rudolph Burke, and slightly shocked five other men.

Burke was at work when the metal touched the high-voltage wire. A power company first-aid squad attempted to revive him.

Those temporarily stunned in the accident yesterday were Joe Howard, Johnnie Smith, H. O. Conley, Albert Williams, W. C. Johnson and Mrs. Williams, who was a native of Columbus, were set for tomorrow.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Common constipation is usually due to meals low in "bulk." Pills and drugs give only temporary relief. The sensible thing to do is to put "bulk" back into your meals.

Millions of people get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Its "bulk" is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Some years ago, an investigation was made among thousands of ALL-BRAN users. 98 per cent found it satisfactory. Only 2 per cent had the type of constipation that would not respond to ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Just eat two tablespoons daily, either as cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

15 CENTS POUND PAID FOR COTTON

Lawrenceville Farmer Sells Bale of Long Staple Lint for Big Price.

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 4.—H. C. Smith, large land owner here, has sold a bale of cotton to R. H. Sams, local buyer, for 15 cents a pound, and five sixteenth.

Mr. Smith states that he does not know the name of the variety and said that he got the seed from an Arkansas, who was traveling through here three years ago. This man gave Mr. Smith 20 seed and he said his tenant planted them in his garden of which seven came up. They carefully picked the seed from the locks, planting them in 1935, producing enough of the seed to plant two acres this year.

Mr. Smith expects to keep the seed pure for a 1937 crop.

ARCHAEOLOGY GROUP TO CONVENE SATURDAY

Fall Meeting of Georgia Society To Be Held at Sea Island.

SEA ISLAND, Ga., Nov. 4.—The fall meeting of the Society for Georgia Archaeology to be held next Saturday is open to all interested Georgia residents, according to Richard W. Smith, secretary.

The society, said Mr. Smith, is not a group of archaeologists but of laymen who are interested in studying and preserving for Georgia all the evidences of the interesting races of Indians that formerly inhabited the state.

At the session Saturday morning there will be reports on the progress of archaeology in Georgia, including reports on the work at Macon, Columbus, Eatonton and Sea Island. Mrs. Isabel Garrard Patterson, of Columbus, will attend, and will report on the work there, displaying several cases of discoveries and pictures of the work.

Mr. Lester, the archaeologist on the Columbus excavations, is also expected to attend.

The afternoon session will be a field trip to inspect the results of the excavations at Sea Island under the direction of Preston Holder, that have been sponsored by the Society for Georgia Archaeology, the Sea Island Company, and the Glynn County Works Progress Administration.

The officers of the society are: Dr. C. C. Harrell, Macon, president; J. M. Mallory, Savannah, first vice president; Mrs. M. E. Judd, Dalton, second vice president; R. W. JOHN H. CANTRELL, 91, SMYRNA PIONEER, DIES

MARIETTA, Ga., Nov. 4.—John H. Cantrell, 91, of Smyrna, and one of the four remaining Confederate veterans in Cobb county, died this afternoon in an Atlanta hospital, after a brief illness. Funeral arrangements are to be announced by Mayes Ward & Co., of Marietta.

Born at Cumming, in Forsyth county, his parents later moved into a rural section of Forsyth county. When the War Between the States broke out both Mr. Cantrell and his father were members of the "home guards," in which capacity they served for six months, after which the son went into the famous "Lee's battalion," at Camp Preston, on Peachtree creek, in Fulton county.

At the age of 19 he joined the army of northern Virginia, company E, fourteenth Georgia infantry, which was encamped at Orange Courthouse, Va. After the close of the war he returned to his parents' home in Forsyth county and moved to Cobb county in 1867. The next year he was married to Miss Lucy R. Eaton, bought a farm and has since lived on it, near Smyrna. Six children were born to them.

As a justice of the peace for several years in Lemons district, as a county jury commissioner for 10 years, as a member of the county board of education and a trustee of Smyrna school district, he was known to practically every inhabitant in southern Cobb county.

GEORGIA LINT GIVEN HIGH GRADING RANK

Total of 646,000 Bales Ginned During First Nine Months of Year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(P)—The agriculture department estimated today 646,000 bales of Georgia cotton were ginned during the first nine months of this year, a decrease of 29,100 from the same period of 1935.

With most of the state's cotton graded as white, only 1,400 bales were graded as tinged, and none was listed as yellow stained or gray.

In white grades were 560,300 bales, and 87,400 were graded as spotted. Strict middling white made up 27.6 per cent of the total, and middling white 46.7 per cent.

Only 20,000 bales had staples of 60,400 last year, while 336,700 were in the 7-8 to 29-32 class, against 300,600 in 1935. In this year's crop none had staples of more than 1.5-32.

Of the 1936 crop, 28,200 bales were unmarketable, compared to 81,600 last year.

Hager To Wheel Howell In Barrow, Paying Debt

Clint Hager, Republican party chairman in Georgia, is prepared to pay his election debt today.

SALARY OF DEPUTIES IMPOUNDED BY BOARD

Fulton county prison camps were adopted unanimously on recommendation of Ed L. Almond, chairman of the public works committee, as the commission moved to forestall a recurrence of conditions which enabled George Haah, life-term thief killer, and Chicken Chastain, a prisoner, to leave the camp and become embroiled in a row with citizens.

Among the requirements laid down in the new rules are the following:

1. Competent, sober employees qualified to perform the duties of their respective offices.
2. Absolute bar to any intoxicants of any kind or character from the camps and a provision for summary dismissal of any employee who violates those provisions.
3. Similar treatment for all prisoners, with favors to any prisoner taboos.

Gifts Banned.

4. Acceptance of any gift by employees from prisoners is forbidden and no employee shall borrow, trade or otherwise engage in any transactions with prisoners.

5. Trustees shall be selected by the deputy warden with the approval of the warden and names of all such prisoners so designated shall be filed with the chairman of the public works committee.

Fulton county will seek a contract with the city of Atlanta entitling the county to tap sewer trunk lines as a result of the disclosure that William A. Hansell, assistant city chief of construction in charge of sewers, had refused tapping permits.

To Be Adjusted.

Dr. Charles Ross Adams, commission chairman, asserted the county would enter into an agreement through which the new $8,000,000 sewer modernization program will serve the whole community and be of the greatest service to all citizens. He expressed confidence the matter will be adjusted within the next few days.

Johnson favored enactment of the New York law for habitual criminals for Georgia when Almond reported the segregation of young first offenders is now in progress in Fulton county and that those freed from the hardened criminal list are sent to Sandy Springs camp.

"I think Georgia should adopt the New York law," Johnson said, "because it makes a person convicted four times for a felony a life term." Johnson asserted, "That would do much to aid in clearing court dockets and would be a definite benefit."

New Officer Elected.

Resignation of Curtis Neal, county policeman, was accepted by the commission, effective as of November 10, and Fred Wray was elected to fill the vacancy.

Dr. S. C. Reed was named as assistant to County Health Officer William L. Gilbert, who will act when Dr. Gilbert is not on duty.

Dr. Adams proposed adoption of the county of police report forms used by the National Police Association, and the matter was referred to the police committee and Chief George Mathison for study and a report.

Adams contended a uniform system would be of material benefit not only to the county but to other officers assisting in a solution of a crime committed in this county. He pointed out that the Atlanta department already has adopted the report system which he championed.

On motion of Adams, the commission took cognizance of grand jury presentments regarding conduct of prison camps, adopted a policy of conforming as "fully as possible with the jury view" and decided to give the matter minute attention at later meetings of the commission.

Filing's Report.

Filing reported he had attempted to have Hughes collect general in charge of impounded cars, to make the checks for rewards in connection with impounded liquor cars over the county, but had been unsuccessful. He asserted Roberts contends the law is specific that the reward should go to the person who has notified him when Roberts paid a reward for such cars, and of Roberts' refusal.

Under a commission order, all rewards going to county officers are turned into the county treasurer by the officers themselves.

May Enter Courts.

There were reports yesterday the deputy sheriffs involved may appeal to the courts in the matter of collection of the rewards, but no definite announcement was made.

P. N. Nolms and W. H. Hopkins were listed as the collectors of the largest rewards, which the county commission seeks to retrieve. The total listed amounted to $1,000, with $587.50. Gus Howard Jr., son of Superior Court Judge Gus H. Howard and Joe Scilling were the next highest with $423.84.

Among others listed as having collected rewards in defiance of the commission's order were Roger Bagwell, S. G. Davies, H. A. Grant, G. L. Hulsey, H. A. Moore, Scab Sharp, L. M. Holcomb, G. J. Stanley, Holmes, Joyner, Baxter P. Coker, J. W. Hopkins, Ed L. Rhodes, W. C. Morris.

$423,846 GOAL SET FOR CHEST CAMPAIGN

will be the most successful of Chest campaigns," Mr. Jones said.

"The keynote of this campaign, that we can all do more this year, expresses a conviction that is widespread in Atlanta. It is a conviction that binds other cities in caring for their unfortunate, but this year I believe we shall reach our goal."

Edens Outlines Plans.

Boyce M. Edens, executive director of this campaign, explained the details of this campaign, set up on entirely new lines, which brings more widespread participation and more real leadership into this campaign than in many years.

The campaign will follow natural lines along which Atlanta has developed, each division being based on mutual interests and close contacts.

Three of the division directors, Harry Sommers, of the automotive division; C. L. Emerson, of the construction division; and L. O. Moseley, of the hotels, restaurants and drugs division, discussed phases of the campaign. They explained how the whole campaign will be worked out by personal contacts "between friends," and how all groups and interests in Atlanta will be united in a common enterprise of service.

F. D. R. GRANDDAUGHTER BAPTIZED IN HYDE PARKPresident Spends Day After Election in Bosom of His Family.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(AP) President Roosevelt sat in a big upholstered chair today in his home at Hyde Park with his family around him, and proudly watched the christening of his downy-haired 8-month-old granddaughter, Kate.

The quiet little family ceremony that followed the election fanfare took place just before tea, in the candle-lit drawing room of the big stone and stucco house overlooking the Hudson.

While the nation's interest centered on the elected President, little Kate, only dark-haired baby in his family, had his undivided attention.

Kate, the 20-pound daughter of James and Betsy Cushing Roosevelt, behaved well in her role as leading lady on this important day. She wiggled her toes, under her long, tucked and lace-trimmed dress of French lawn but made no sound during the ceremony.

As the Rev. Frank Wilson, rector of St. James Episcopal chapel at Hyde Park, where the President was christened, touched her forehead with water, she raised a plump hand to the rector's face, and was kissed in return.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a maroon cloth dress, and the President's son, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., in a blue suit, stood by the rector's side.

Her attractive young aunt, Barbara Cushing, tall young John and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., the President's sons, and the baby's two godmothers completed the family circle.

One godmother, Mrs. Fred Adams, sister of Miss Laura Delano, the President's cousin, held the blue-eyed, chestnut-haired baby whose christening dress was a gift of Grandmother Cushing.

The President's mother, attired in royal purple, invited all the servants to see the ceremony, and they stood in the background.

Baby Kate was taken to her nursery window last night in her nightgown to see her grandfather speak to his jubilant Hyde Park neighbors, played on his knee for a while before the service.

Afterward, while the President's mother poured tea in the drawing room from a gold and silver service, she and little Sara, who had been with her two young uncles, Franklin D. and John, on the rug before an open fire.

F. D. R. Drinks Tea.

Their laughter resounded through the house, while the President looked on merrily from his arm chair, drinking tea.

He was clad in a sand-colored sack suit. The baby's mother wore pale blue wool, and little Kate's dress had matching satin ribbons.

The President followed the service, as the rector read it, in his prayer book.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt attended a luncheon given by Miss Nancy Cook at the Val Kill cottage on the estate from the name of the women campaign workers, and later the President dropped in.

She spent a busy afternoon answering part of a mass of congratulatory mail that poured in today. Early tomorrow she will leave for Washington, driving her car herself.

County Name Change
Sought for Roosevelt

SULPHUR, Okla., Nov. 4.—(AP) A petition was being circulated in Murray county tonight asking that the county's name be changed to Roosevelt.

The county was named for William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, president of the constitutional convention in 1907.

Murray, a former Democratic governor, now is a New Deal critic. Murray county voted overwhelmingly for Roosevelt yesterday.

County officials sponsored the petition.

"It was my idea to name the county after Roosevelt," said John Henry Santles, Murray county clerk.

The petition asks the legislature to change the name, but S. H. Lattimore, assistant attorney general in Oklahoma city, said a constitutional amendment would be necessary. Santles said the legislature would be asked to sponsor whatever action was necessary.

At his home in Broken Bow, Murray, who introduced Governor Alf M. Landon in a campaign speech here October 23, said:

"I am not concerned about it."

Officials backing the move said almost 1,000 signatures were obtained on the petition today.

82-year-old mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt Sr., stood near the improvised altar—a lace-covered table with two bowls of roses on it, and two tall silver candlesticks.

James Is Father.

James Roosevelt, the baby's father, came to Hyde Park from Massachusetts for the ceremony and stood with his pretty blonde wife in the candlelight, each of them holding one hand of their older child, Sara, 4-1/2.

The baby's maternal grandparents, Dr. Harvey Cushing, of the Yale University faculty, and Mrs. Kate Cushing, for whom she was named, also were there.

Her attractive young aunt, Barbara Cushing, tall young John and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., the President's sons, and the baby's two godmothers completed the family circle.

One godmother, Mrs. Fred Adams, sister of Miss Laura Delano, the President's cousin, held the blue-eyed, chestnut-haired baby whose christening dress was a gift of Grandmother Cushing.

Europe Hails With Enthusiasm
Roosevelt's Overwhelming Victory

London Paper Commends F. D. R.'s Sound Economic Policy, Social Structure; Rome Press Declares President's Powers "Dictatorial."

By The Associated Press.

Foreign officials and newspapers hailed with enthusiasm Wednesday night the landslide re-election of President Roosevelt.

In European nations where the press is controlled by authoritarian governments, editorial writers suggested the overwhelming New Deal vote might show a trend toward a single party system as in their own countries.

"Is this a Democratic election? Or is it the eruption of the fuhrer (leader) idea within the Democratic system—achieved by Democratic methods?" asked the Berlin Tagblatt.

The American people have approved "the tendency of the President to concentrate political, economic and directive powers in a form which a European democracy would call dictatorial," commented Virginia Gayda, authoritative writer for the Rome Giornale D'Italia.

A triumph for democratic tendencies, "was the phrase used by French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, who declared his 'great joy' for the 'tremendous backing given to Roosevelt's policy of peace.'"

The President's greatness lies in the fact "he has been able to break away from hidebound tradition without smashing the still-solid economic and social structure," said the London Evening Standard. The London News called the election victory the "greatest triumph in United States history."

Moscow, Tokyo, Amsterdam, Vienna, Shanghai, and Geneva added their felicitations for the landslide. Prelates in Vatican City said Pope Pius expressed pleasure over the result.

In the western hemisphere, neighboring nations of the United States observed the campaign's finish variously. Some businessmen in Mexico City registered disappointment, although government officials felt the opposite.

The Canadian government, as given destiny.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(UP) President Roosevelt, knee deep in the telegraphic felicitations of a nation, tonight hailed the message as "a national assurance that we are going forward together."

In a formal statement, the only one he has issued since the election, the chief executive conveyed his gratitude to the country for its support and asked that his new remarks be regarded as an acknowledgment to the thousands who greeted him in the summer White House.

He said: "I find myself nearly buried by an avalanche of thousands of letters and telegrams, and I am endeavoring to have this assurance that we are going forward together. I would like to thank each of you individually for your confidence and pledges of support. Will each of you accept this as my acknowledgment and my thanks for your message?"

That done, Mr. Roosevelt turned to the task of translating the nation's mandate for continuation of the New Deal which was given him in the overwhelming vote in yesterday's elections.

Within hours after election charts and figures, he took, nevertheless, increasing satisfaction from his great personal triumph at the polls and planned further comprehensive analysis of the result and what it means in relation to the extent of administration policy development.

Close friends represented the President as feeling that the balloting indicated the voting was on the basis of principle instead of party and opened the way to four years of economic leadership.

They echoed that which Mr. Roosevelt stressed in his Madison Square Garden speech that no American need attention to it but Cook by constant repetition came to believe it.

As the election drew nearer, Cook was making small election bets, but also was making ever more certain of a Republican victory. His Democratic acquaintances at the restaurant bailed him unmercifully yet his faith in the Republican cause only grew firmer.

Last night the early election returns were a great shock to Cook, but when he went to sleep he still believed the late returns would show a reversal.

This morning, Cook's morning paper had conceded the Democratic victory and he told his friends:

"I'm going to shoot myself, now."

She again refused to consider the threat seriously and went to the kitchen to prepare breakfast. A moment later she heard a shot and rushed back to her husband to find that he had wounded himself near the heart.

Cook, bedridden at a hospital shortly before noon.

PARADE IS HELD AT WARM SPRINGS

Patients and Residents of Foundation Celebrate F. D. R. Victory.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Patients and residents of the Warm Springs Foundation, where President Roosevelt has his "other home," held a costume victory parade today to mark his return to office.

The parade included a fire truck with screaming siren, an old stage coach and mounted riders. Over 100 persons took part in the demonstration, which proceeded through Warm Springs and Manchester.

LONDON CARRIES FANNIN COUNTY

BLUR RIDGE, Ga., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Georgia county gave Governor Alf M. Landon a majority vote. President Roosevelt who calls the state his "other home."

Complete unofficial returns from Fannin county showed Governor Georgia gave Landon 1,803 votes to 1,540 for Roosevelt.

In 1932 the county gave Herbert Hoover 1,987 votes to 1,875 for Roosevelt.

WOMAN WINS IN TIFT COUNTY

TIFTON, Ga., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Tift county's new ordinary—Mrs. Mary Emma Rigdon—celebrated her victory today over 10 men opponents in the election.

Mrs. Rigdon, the only woman in the race, is a widow and the mother of five children.

ROOSEVELT LONDON LIVES AT AUGUSTA

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 4.—(AP)—His name, of course, was a pre-election coincidence, and the fact that he bobbed up at the county courthouse today is a post-election coincidence. The name was found on the records when an attorney called at the sheriff's office to verify the identity of a client he represented sometime ago.

Search of the records revealed that his name is Roosevelt Landon.

WALLACE PREPARING

Official Interprets Victory as Mandate for Furthering AAA Plans.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Interpreting the Roosevelt victory as an endorsement of the administration's farm plans, Secretary Wallace tonight plunged into the task of drafting an all-risk crop insurance program for submission to congress.

Checking off the growing stack of New Deal ballots, Wallace said he was "especially gratified because a 'great majority of farmers indicated that they have a real understanding of the problems of agriculture and the direction in which we must move to solve them.'"

Private insurance experts will meet tomorrow with the agriculture secretary and a special committee named by the President to discuss details of the crop insurance plan.

Part of New Plan.

It will be part of the 1937 AAA program which soon will be formulated. In preparing this program, drought education of many important crops with resulting abnormally large market of livestock and poultry must be reckoned with by the federal farm leaders.

High prices for human food and animal feed recently are expected by the department's economists to cause an expansion in planting of many crops. With normal weather and yields next year this could result in what Secretary Wallace has often termed the threat of ruinous prices from depressing surpluses.

In addition to suggesting a federal crop insurance plan to congress that will tie in with the AAA soil conservation program, Wallace and his aides must obtain a new appropriation to finance expected benefit payments for farmers who have been hit by drought.

Distribution of the $470,000,000 congress provided for farmers who participated in the 1936 AAA program has barely started and is well behind the payment schedule first announced.

Wallace, H. R. Tolley, AAA administrator, and others in the agriculture department devoted much time and effort to the campaign speaking chiefly in the midwest farm states.

Says Vote Is Rebuke.

Today Wallace, one-time farm paper editor and writer, said in his statement:

"The vote was a rebuke to the greedy minority in organized business and to the Tory publishers who have forgotten their primary function and have filled the news columns of their papers with inaccurate, misleading and malicious propaganda."

The agriculture secretary said the sweeping Democratic "vote ought to convince many politicians and partisan publishers that never again can we underestimate the intelligence of the American people."

4 WOMEN RE-ELECTED; FLORENCE KAHN LOSES

Mrs. Mary T. Norton Becomes Feminine Dean of House.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Returns today showed four women re-elected to the house of representatives while a fifth was chosen for her first term.

Returned were Virginia E. Jenckes, Democrat, Indiana; Mary T. Norton, Democrat, New Jersey; Caroline O'Day, Democrat, New York, and Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican, Massachusetts.

Elected as Oregon's first congresswoman was Nan Wood Honeyman, Democratic daughter of the author, Charles Erskine Scott Wood.

The only incumbent defeated was the veteran of 12 years in the house, Florence Kahn, Republican, California.

Four other women who sought congressional posts on the major party tickets were beaten by men. They were Bertha Bauer and Irene Tomas, Chicago, Republicans; Agnes C. Heavner, Democrat, Massachusetts; and Melinda Alexander, Republican, New York.

With Mrs. Kahn defeated, Mrs. Norton is the dean of the women representatives. She preceded Mrs. Rogers—sent to Washington after her husband's death—by a few months.

Crimson, the important District of Columbia committee, Mrs. Rogers is known by many capital residents as the "Mayor of Washington."

Isabelle Greenwood, a member of the feminine contingent in the house last term, did not seek re-election. Her place was won by a man.

Roosevelt's Campaign Addresses
Should Be Put in Book, Says Deputy

Publication of the campaign addresses of President Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936 in book form to pay off any campaign deficiencies which may be pending was urged yesterday by Emmett L. Quinn, chief deputy to Sheriff James I. Lowry. Deputy Sheriff Quinn made his suggestion in a letter to The Constitution.

"The people have spoken and no one will mistake their voice," Mr. Quinn said in commenting on the election.

His letter follows:

"The people have spoken and no one will mistake their voice. They have returned for another four years the greatest humanitarian of all time, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

"No doubt a deficit exists in the Democratic treasury which should be taken care of at once by all loyal Democrats, and they should now begin to build for the future.

"As one way of raising this fund, may I suggest that the Democratic

LAST WINTER!

[Official Statistics]

More than half a million American motorists got into trouble last year. Some waited too long before putting in anti-freeze. Others either put in straight alcohol or used an anti-freeze containing alcohol (there are approximately 50 such brands of anti-freeze on the market—sold under various names). And alcohol, as you know, and as they found out, boils off.

On the other side of the picture millions of car owners breezed through the winter with Eveready Prestone... without a worry.

If you want guaranteed protection against freeze-up, against rust, all winter long, you want Eveready Prestone. Look up your car on the chart below, see how little it costs for complete protection from now until the flowers bloom in the Spring.

Go to any dealer flying the Eveready Prestone banner and follow the best advice any service man can give you:

FIND YOUR CAR ON THIS CHART

IMPORTANT! The price per gallon of an anti-freeze means nothing unless you know how many gallons you will need during the entire winter. You can't get that information on a bottle of anti-freeze. But you can get it for Eveready Prestone. It tells you exactly how many gallons you need for complete protection all winter long against both freeze-up and rust. Reasonably you can get two-way protection all winter long with one bottle of Eveready Prestone—one shot because it won't boil off, no matter how warm the weather gets between the cold snaps. If your car isn't on this chart, your dealer has a chart showing all cars; and amounts needed for temperatures to 60° below zero.

Find your car and read from left to right. The first figure shows the protection you get with one gallon of Eveready Prestone in the cooling system; the second with two gallons; and so on. "4" means above zero. "4" means below zero.

If your car has a hot water heater, add 4 gallons to the quantity called for.

RELIEF APPROPRIATION CONSIDERED CERTAIN

Administration Officials Believe President Will Back Demand for $500,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(UP)—Continuation of the federal work-relief program—with a new $500,000,000 congressional appropriation probable for next January—was considered a certainty tonight.

Administration officials said, and intimated President Roosevelt would share their stand, that they viewed Tuesday's New Deal landslide as the country's approval of their job-making policies.

They pointed out that work-relief and its $3,500,000,000 annual cost had been a main issue in Democratic-Republican campaign controversies.

G. O. P. Against Relief.

The Democratic platform stood for continued federal spending to finance work projects for 3,000,000 needy. Governor Alf M. Landon and his party advocated, in effect, a return to dole relief with the government augmenting local funds with grants-in-aid.

Indefinite extension of the Works Progress Administration was assured by the New Deal victory along with the Public Works Administration, Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation and other alphabetical agencies engaged in relief.

WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins will remain as the administration's work-relief director. He campaigned actively for Mr. Roosevelt. The need for more money to continue the program is evident. The President said last summer that unless private industry absorbed large numbers of the unemployed, he would seek at least $500,000,000 more from congress next January.

Indications were that, instead of a reduction in need, relief rolls will turn upward this winter. Latest estimates show there still are 1,000,000 unemployed in the country. Last summer's drought added to the burden.

WPA to Continue. To meet the need, Hopkins will continue WPA activities attacked so bitterly as "wasteful" and "extraneous" by Governor Landon and the Republican national committee. All WPA subdivisions financing work for white-collar needy, student-aid for youth, writers' projects and women's activities will be extended.

The United States re-employment service will be expanded, financed by a new $1,125,000 allotment announced by Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign.

The agency will seek to find jobs with private firms for needy through sub-offices, keeping a close contact with employment conditions.

ALABAMA WOMAN IS SHOT TO DEATH

Mrs. Lucille Baggett Slain in Birmingham by Unidentified Assailant.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Lucille Baggett, 32, was shot to death in an apartment near the business district here today by an unidentified assailant who fled after firing five shots.

Mrs. Baggett was found by a desk clerk, attracted by the shots, lying in the bathtub, fully clothed. She was dead when she reached a hospital.

LaFayette Plum, negro janitor, said he gave the location of Mrs. Baggett's room to a man who called at the apartment. Plum told police he heard several shots a few minutes later and saw the man run from the building.

T. T. Elliott, machinist, who lives in the apartment under that of Mrs. Baggett, also was quoted by police as having heard the shots, and having seen the man run to an automobile parked across the street and drive away.

Mrs. Baggett's two children, Claude, 12, and Calvin, 10, were visiting an aunt when the shooting occurred. Deputy Coroner Charles Parrish said Mrs. Baggett was shot four times, at close range.

SNOW STORM HITS TRI-STATE AREA

Temperatures of 25 and 30 Are Expected in Ohio and Kentucky.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 4.—(AP)—An all-day driving snowstorm swept through this tri-state area today, leaving a record early season fall of nine inches in Cincinnati, disrupting traffic, telegraph and light service.

The storm at times gained intensity reminiscent of last Christmas Day's blizzard and reached well to the west of Louisville, Ky., through Indiana where rivers rose in its wake and north to Columbus, Ohio.

Another inch was expected through central Ohio, and an additional fall was forecast for the southwestern area, where temperatures were due to dip to between 25 and 30 degrees.

At Louisville, where close to five inches was recorded, fallen trees caused officials to close park entrances, and race meetings both at Louisville and Cincinnati were postponed.

The storm brought a fall of snow exceeding that for the entire month of November in any previous year in which weather records have been kept in Cincinnati.

BORDER FORTIFICATIONS ARE SOUGHT BY FRANCE

French Defense Minister Envisions Attack From Germany.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Envisioning a possible lightning German attack against France, Defense Minister Edouard Daladier today urged immediate fortification of the Belgian and Swiss frontiers and a speed-up in the manufacture of war materials.

Addressing the chamber of deputies army committee on the eve of a new session of parliament tomorrow, Daladier asked for a recommendation that 500,000,000 francs (about $23,250,000) be expended to fortify France's borders.

He stressed especially the erection of defenses facing Switzerland, to protect the same construction as the famed Maginot line fronting on Germany—a series of steel and concrete "pill-boxes."

The northern frontier fortifications, the defense minister declared, will be of the same construction as the famed Maginot line fronting on Germany—a series of steel and concrete "pill-boxes."

The government decided defense works must be built along the Belgian border, Daladier said, because of Belgium's recent declaration of neutrality.

Lack of Confidence.

(Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Henry Spaak described the Belgian position as a lack of confidence in collective security, especially as represented by the League of Nations, but willingness to adhere to its old agreements. France and Belgium have a military alliance.)

Daladier told the committee the German army lacks sufficient officers for the huge number of soldiers enrolled under that nation's requirement of two-year service but that the number of officers would be sufficiently increased in a year.

He also gave details—disclosed by members of the committee after the session—on Germany's construction of fortifications in the Rhineland.

Physical Training.

Obligatory physical training for all Frenchmen, beginning at the age of 18, was proposed by Daladier as an aid to building up the French army. Under the plan which he said he would introduce in parliament, youths would be sent to physical instruction camps.

The number of professional troops in the French army, he asserted, has been increased in the last few months from 106,000 to 144,000 through intensive recruiting. He said he hoped to strengthen the army further by making reserves serve 30 days each year instead of the present 21.

Socialist Premier Leon Blum was ready to present his 1937 budget to the parliament opening tomorrow, hoping for speedy passage although financial experts have predicted there will be a deficit of 20 to 25 billion francs ($20,000,000 to $15,000,000).

It will be parliament's first session since it devalued the franc and its third since Blum took office at the head of the leftist popular front government in June.

Although Radical Socialists and Communists, two leading groups in the popular front coalition, have expressed disapproval of some government measures, both have promised Blum their support in parliament.

RAIL OFFICIALS PROBE SLAYING OF TRAINMAN

WINNFIELD, La., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Officials of the Louisiana and Arkansas Railway lines today sought through investigating officers to trace the killer who last night pumped buckshot into the engine crew of their passenger train, the "Hustler," near Winnfield, and killed a guard and wounded the fireman and the engineer.

The railroad offered a $5,000 reward for the arrest of the guilty.

The train was ambushed by an attacker about five miles north of Winnfield. Shots were poured into the engine from a close range as the latest act of violence since transportation workers of the railroad went on strike in September.

Max Osborne, 30, of Rodessa, La., the guard, died in the engine cab. E. J. Waskom, the fireman, riding on the left side of the cab directly in front of Waskom, suffered buckshot wounds in the jaw which made him temporarily unconscious.

F. R. Bacon, of Shreveport, the engineer, was grazed on the neck by a shotgun charge, but he was not seriously hurt.

ATHENS, Ohio, Nov. 4.—(AP)—A mine cage carrying 21 men to their work plunged 40 feet to the bottom of a shaft of mine No. 255 of the Ohio Coalfields Company, at nearby Drydock today, injuring 14 of the miners.

Hoisted to the surface eight of the injured were taken to Columbus, Athens and Zanesville hospitals after they were found to have fractured legs or ribs. Six others were severely bruised as the cage plunged downward and crashed at the bottom of the shaft.

Mine inspectors and officials started an investigation of the accident as doctors gave the injured miners emergency treatment.

L & H Range

AN ELECTRIC RANGE COOKS Cheaply

Dollars have a gratifying stretch to them when you cook electrically—you will thrill to the joy of "making ends meet" when you use an Electric Range.

First, our low electric rates—amongst the lowest in the United States—assure low cooking cost. Then, there is no food wastage due to shrinkage—a four-pound roast remains practically a four-pound roast after cooking, and doesn't shrink to an embarrassing size. Lastly, there are worthwhile savings in laundry and cleaning bills. Clean electric heat soils nothing—curtains, aprons, towels stay clean longer; pots and pans need no scouring cleansers; woodwork and walls remain free from grease and grime, requiring less frequent refinishing. Perhaps, after all, the greatest advantage of electrically cooked foods is that they are juicier, tastier—because flame-free electric heat cooks them in little or no water and without moisture-stealing oven drafts.

The L & H Range illustrated is a distinguished model of an old family. It is completely equipped with fast, Chromalox surface units, an automatic temperature control, a smokeless broiler pan, and the Handy Cooker with a triplicate pan set. You'll enjoy, too, the big service compartment that provides ample room for storing pots and pans. And the five appliance outlets on this range are an added convenience that will save you many, many steps. Low in price, this beautiful all-porcelain L & H Range is only $134.50, further reduced by the $15 old stove allowance to $119.50 net cash. Terms arranged for a small carrying charge.

Come in, select your Electric Range now, and start a nice little bank account with the money you save. All sizes and all models from which you may choose—in Hotpoint, Westinghouse and L & H Ranges.

World-Wide Traveler Returns Here After Nine-Year Absence

By Sally Forth.

MRS. STEWART WALLACE, that world-wide traveler who is better known to her intimates as the former Louise Todd, is being welcomed to Atlanta by her hosts of friends. This is the first time in nine years that Mrs. Wallace has set foot in Atlanta, from whence she departed 14 years ago to girdle the globe. She is visiting Mrs. Frank T. Mason at her Ponce de Leon avenue address, but Mrs. Wallace will move into an apartment at 1206 Peachtree road on the 10th of this month.

Mrs. Wallace has visited almost every country under the sun since she left her home in Georgia and has experienced a colorful and eventful life. During the 14 years she has been away, she had an apartment in Paris and in London and spent a year in Italy. She will spend the winter here and is enthusiastic over being with her friends and relatives, but will pack her luggage in the springtime to sail for London in time to witness the coronation of King Edward VIII.

IN AN interesting series entitled "Young Women of Pensacola May Contribute Much to Community," the Pensacola, Fla., Journal features in a recent issue Mrs. E. Dixie Beggs Jr., whom you remember as the former Sara Strickland, of Decatur. Under a charming photograph of Sara, the Journal says:

"Mrs. Beggs is one of the younger women of Pensacola already actively engaged in club and civic work. Mrs. Beggs came to Pensacola three years ago as the bride of E. Dixie Beggs, Florida's youngest state's attorney, and herself not yet 25. She is vice president of the Pensacola branch, American Association of University Women, and is president of Azalea Circle, Pensacola Garden Club, and one of the two general chairmen for the convention of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs which meets in Pensacola next spring.

"As legislative chairman of the Pensacola Woman's Club, she takes these duties seriously, as she does all that she undertakes. She is a member of the Junior Chapter, D. A. R., and a member of the First Baptist church. Very young and very charming, each day she is proving what the very young married group may do for their community and for themselves through home, church, club and civic contacts."

The story goes further to say that although Mrs. Beggs takes pride in her club affiliations, her home and husband are her chief interests. It reveals that Mr. and Mrs. Beggs are building a lovely new home on the crest of a hill overlooking the water, on Magnolia and Escambia avenues.

Mrs. Beggs is the daughter of G. E. Strickland, of Concord, Ga., but she spent most of her life with her aunt, Mrs. B. R. Beck, in Decatur, and she was educated at Agnes Scott. Sally Forth feels especial pride in her friendship and claims at least a slight tie of relationship, for her full name was before her marriage Sara Forth Strickland.

WHEN the Lee Society met recently at Jamestown, Va., to dedicate the tombstone to William Lee and his son, William Ludwell Lee, among the interested descendants attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Pegram III.

"William Lee," said Jeffrey Montague, president of the Lee Society, "brought upon himself and his brother, Arthur Lee, a hurricane of vituperation for their disclosures during the Revolution of the villainies of Edward Bancroft. Although they succeeded in securing the recall of Silas Deane, these disclosures were too close to certain Frenchmen of importance and resulted in the recall of the Lees from their posts abroad."

Mr. Montague compared their retirement to the quiet of their Virginia homes, to the calm ac-

For Double-Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Better Than Ready-Made Medicines. Easily Mixed. Here's an old home remedy your mother used to make. It's still the best thing ever known for coughs that start from colds. Try it once, and you'll swear by it. It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And there is positively nothing like it for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Rose Society Meets Friday for Annual Session and Program

The Georgia Rose Society holds its annual meeting at 10:30 o'clock on Friday at Rich's, with Mrs. Walter Lamb, the president, presiding. Ten-minute talks will be given to be followed by five minutes of open discussion.

The subjects of the talks will be "Importance of Good Plants; Proper Time to Plant and Prune," by Rodney S. Cohen, of Augusta; "Control of Rose Diseases and Insects," by Donald Hastings; "Old Roses," by Mrs. Arthur Tuft; "Old Roses," by Mrs. Joel Hunter; "Experience With New Roses," by J. D. Crump, of Macon; "Highlights of the Texas Convention of the American Rose Society," by Mrs. Arnold Hepp.

Officers reports will be given and election of officers will take place. The meeting will conclude with a luncheon at 1 o'clock, when round-table discussions will be featured.

Invitation is extended to anyone interested in the culture of roses to become a member of the society. Dues will be credited for the year 1937, and there will be no additional dues for the balance of 1936. The secretary, Mrs. V. K. Bowman, will be in the hall at 10 o'clock to welcome new members, receive dues, and issue membership cards.

Officers are Mrs. Walter R. Lamb, president; Rodney S. Cohen, vice president; Donald Hastings, treasurer; J. D. Crump, honorary president. Members are asked to bring any late rose blooms from their gardens.

LOSE FAT THE EASY WAY

Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

Here's a way to get rid of ugly fat that works hand in hand with Nature. Millions of people are losing millions of pounds of flabby flesh and getting back slender figures, without the need of starvation diets or back-breaking exercises.

Medical science has discovered that one of the causes of too much fat lies in a little gland. It is the duty of this tiny gland to make about one drop and a half every day of a vital fluid. This helps the body "burn" up food and excess fatty tissues just as a good draft of air helps the furnace to burn up coal without forming "clinkers." If this little gland doesn't make this drop and a half of fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat.

Doctors correct this condition by feeding this little gland the substance it lacks—and Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on this same method. Millions are using them with success. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory. Their formula is published in every package so you know what you are taking.

So don't waste time and money with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Go to your drug store today and get a box of Marmola. Try this simple, easy way to get rid of excess fat.

Rabun Gap-Nacoochee School To Benefit From Piano Concert

The Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school, through Atlanta Chapter U. D. C., will be sole beneficiary of the Georgia piano ensemble concert to be given November 12 at matinee and evening performances. Mrs. Forrest Kibler, president of the chapter, and Mrs. W. M. Carmichael, chairman of the benefit committee, announce that proceeds derived from the concert will be added to the fund being raised by the chapter for the purpose of building a cottage at the school where a family may live while obtaining an education. The cottage will be a memorial to the late Miss Alice Baxter who, while president of the Georgia division, was influential in beginning the activities of the U. D. C. at the school. The concert will be called the "Alice Baxter cottage."

Walter McElreath Honors Poetry Forum.

Walter McElreath entertained the poetry forum Sunday at his home, Braebirgin, on the Piedmont road. The house was decorated with exquisite dahlias given by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Faust from their garden adjoining Mr. McElreath's home.

Mrs. Jeff Hutchings, chairman, introduced the honor guest, Mrs. Isabel Fiske Conant, poet and editor of magazines in New York and Washington. Mrs. Conant's selections were interesting and greatly enjoyed. The poem most appreciated was "The Chemist," a tribute to Keats. James Warren, co-chairman, was also introduced and read several of his poems.

In the contest, following the open forum, at which each member read, the first place was won by Mrs. Gene Aline with her poem, "Retrospection." The suggestion was made by the chairman that a scrapbook be kept of the winning poem of each meeting.

Dr. W. F. Melton, president of the Atlanta Writers' Club, of which the forum is a division, announced that again this year the contest would give a five-dollar prize for the best poem submitted for the Christmas contest. These poems are judged anonymously by well-known poets. The winning poem is to be announced and read at the Christmas dinner-meeting of the Writers' Club. Each contribution is not to exceed 32 lines, and must be received by Mrs. Hutchings not later than December 3. The next meeting of the forum will be held with Mrs. Elton on Emory road.

Amoma Class.

Amoma Class of Kirkwood Baptist church met recently at the home of Mr. Emory Dickson.

Mrs. Leon Gendell, devotional vice president, brought the devotional. Each officer read her report for the month. Plans were made for filling and distributing Thanksgiving baskets by the class.

An interesting contest was conducted by Miss Bessie Byram, fellowship vice president. Prizes were won by Mrs. H. C. Grant and Mrs. R. C. Middour. A miscellaneous shower was given to Mrs. H. C. Grant.

Present were Misses Alla Kent, Laurie Garner, Lillian Hamilton, Bessie Byram, Evelyn Huddeston, Louise Fortson, Jessie Myers, Mary Jones, Mesdames R. H. Yarbrough, R. C. Middour, Harry Timmerman, Leon Swindell, B. E. Hudgens, Clyde Robinson, Frank Prince, Emory Dickson, D. M. Dickson, C. M. Williams, H. P. Myers, H. C. Grant and Fred Nash.

Memorial Service.

A memorial service for Mrs. Sarah Margaret Gilleland was held in the class-room bearing her name of the Underwood M. E. church on Sunday. The Hon. Thomas H. Jeffries, the principal speaker, was a life-long friend and neighbor of Mrs. Gilleland. Others taking part on the program were Thoben Elrod, Lloyd Betts, Mrs. A. P. Moon, Mrs. M. L. Gilstrap and Rev. J. Douglas Swagerty.

Buffet Luncheon.

Honoring Misses Christine Thiesen, Emily Smith, Clare Haverly and Anne Williams, popular members of the Debutantes' Club, and Miss Anne Douglas, Savannah debutante, was the buffet luncheon at which Mrs. Malcolm Fleming and Miss Adelaide Fleming were hostesses yesterday at their home on Seventeenth street.

Chrysanthemums in "vari-color" shades predominated in all the rooms of the home and luncheon was served from the beautifully decorated table in the dining room. Sixty guests were present.

Assisting in entertaining were daughters of the hostess, Miss Anne Wynn Fleming, Mrs. Frank Player and Miss Adelaide Fleming.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Tuesday.—I left Hyde Park yesterday after lunch, drove down to New York, dressed, had a bite to eat and then went over to the Hotel Pennsylvania for the League of Mothers' dinner, which I had promised to attend some weeks ago.

This organization is to me a particularly interesting one. It consists of groups from various settlement houses throughout the city of New York. Most of them are mothers living in tenements; many of them work outside, in addition to doing their home duties. In their organization they carry on an educational program. They study sanitation, housing, the care of children, any subjects that touch their daily lives.

I shook hands with a good many of them before we sat down at the table. Then, because I wished to be back at Hyde Park when my husband spoke at 11 p. m., they allowed me to speak and delayed their dinner until I was through—a courtesy which I deeply appreciated. Their new president, Mrs. Harris, sat on my right, and we talked for a few minutes before Dr. John Elliott, who was master of ceremonies for the evening, got up to present me.

When I was through, Mrs. Harris thanked me on behalf of the league with a poise and ease which many women of long experience in club work might have envied, and presented me with a gorgeous bunch of chrysanthemums. It was a group that gave me a warm feeling, around the heart. I am glad to have been there, and I hope they will become an ever more important factor in the life of New York city.

I got home just before 11 to find my daughter and son-in-law and youngest son had already arrived. We all sat around listening to my husband and then talked over the end of the campaign. It is a grand sensation to have it over with, to know that you no longer need listen to rumors and prognostications, that life can go back into the usual channels and people will be just people again, without a party tag attached to them.

Everyone else slept fairly late this morning, but I had to be up early, because this little message must go off to you at an early hour today on account of the rush of election news. Then we must all be ready to go up and vote at 11 o'clock. After that, the President plans to survey some roads in the woods with the boys, who are home for the day, and peace and quiet will reign until the later afternoon.

Miss Wood, Rev. Peter Marshall Are United in West Virginia

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 4.—At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the First Presbyterian church Miss Sarah Catherine Wood, of Keyser, became the bride of Rev. Peter Marshall, of Atlanta, Ga. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Rev. John A. Wood, pastor of First Presbyterian church. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Robert Wood. She wore a white satin gown made with lace yoke and a collar of Mary of Scotland design, her veil was caught in cap shape with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of cream roses and lilies.

Miss Shirley Christian, of Chattanooga, Tenn., a roommate of the bride while students at Agnes Scott College, was maid-of-honor. She wore a gown of sapphire blue velvet with turban to match and carried a bouquet of talliesman roses. Henry Hope of Atlanta, was the groom's best man. Ushers were Richard Key, J. Clark Bright, John Winters and Richard Romig.

Mrs. Wood, mother of the bride, wore a gown of royal blue velvet and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. The church was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and ferns. White lighted candles were placed in each window and on the altar. Following the wedding, supper was served at the Presbyterian manse on Overton place, after which the bride and groom left for a honeymoon in eastern cities. They will return to Keyser before leaving for Atlanta, Ga., where they will make their home.

Mrs. Marshall is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John A. Wood, Overton place, Keyser, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Whitaker, of Montreat, N. C., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Wood, of Johnson City, Tenn. She is descended from a long line of Presbyterian ministers on both sides of her family. Her ancestors were among those who established and organized the first Presbyterian church and school in America. She is a graduate of Keyser High school and was graduated from Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Ga., last spring, receiving her A. B. degree. While in college she was quite active in religious and social life of the school.

Mr. Marshall was born in Coatbridge, Scotland, son of late Peter Marshall and Mrs. Peter Findlay, of Coatbridge, Scotland. He was educated at Technical College in Coatbridge, with a degree of engineering. He came to this country in 1925 and almost immediately began preparation for the ministry and was graduated with his B. D. degree from Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Ga., in 1931. After his graduation he served as pastor of the Presbyterian church in Covington, Ga. He is now pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church in Atlanta.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Mary Davenport, of Marietta, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hope, Miss Ruby Coleman and Willard Daugherty, of Atlanta; Mrs. L. B. Wood, Mrs. Rddy Bolling, of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Kilgore To Face Jackets; Hartman Sure Georgia Starter

After carefully explaining to the voice that the man's name was pronounced "Marr," even if it was spelled M-E-A-G-H-E-R, I sat patiently and waited while she struggled to get a man named Meagher down in Auburn, Ala.

I think the man must be pretty well worn down himself, because when she said that Atlanta wanted to speak to Mr. Meagher, who coached the Auburn football team, he said, "All right, this is he."

Jack Meagher was just back from the Pacific coast with his Plainsmen. They lost a 12-to-0 game to the Santa Clara eleven out there. And they arrived back to a fine welcome yesterday just before noon.

On Saturday the team will play Georgia Tech in Atlanta. That was the basis of the interrogation.

"You played an awfully good game out there to lose."

"Well, they had a much better team than we expected. Santa Clara has a really fine team."

It seems that Santa Clara has a well-balanced team and too many reserves for Auburn. And maybe too much power. But Jack Meagher was as satisfied as a man can be with a game that went the wrong way.

AN UNORTHODOX COACH.

Jack Meagher, known to the long-distance girls as Mr. Meagher, is an unorthodox coach when it comes to public utterances.

Most coaches can be quoted without consultation on their pre-game and post-game statements. In fact, Jack Meagher is so unorthodox he is becoming almost orthodox.

He has just returned from a battering game on the coast in which his star back, Wilton Kilgore, was injured.

"What sort of shape will your team be in for the Tech game?"

"Oh, we'll be all right."

"Kilgore will play?"

"Oh, yes, he will be able to play, all right."

"They all are in shape?"

"Oh, yes, they are in shape."

"What about the game Saturday?"

"Well, we'll be over there, all right."

TECH IN WORST SHAPE OF YEAR FOR SATURDAY

Konemann Expects To Practice Today, But Remains Question Mark.

By Ralph McGill.

Georgia Tech football coaches are making no effort to qualify as blue singers on an amateur or professional program.

But the fact remains Tech will go into the Auburn game on Saturday in perhaps the poorest physical condition of the year.

This will apply to the starting team and to the reserves, the latter being made more inadequate than ever by the definite loss of Walter Rimmer, reserve tackle.

In fact, Coach Alexander's favorite reading this week is the Book of Job. He feels so close to the old boy.

Dutch Konemann was smiling in the infirmary yesterday. Physicians reported him greatly improved. He is expected to return to practice this afternoon unless his tonsils start backing once more. His fever has abated, dropping from 103 degrees to near normal during the day.

NOT SURE. But fever never leaves the patient feeling as if he would like to go out and log a football a few hundred yards. And it is by no means sure that he does he may have no more strength than a Singer midget.

Konemann remains the most serious problem. As announced before, the Tech coaches are not moping. They are working the team, leaving off all scrimmage work, at signal drills and seeking, through lectures, to prepare them for the Auburn game and the Auburn attack.

Jack Meagher, Auburn coach, announced yesterday on the return of himself and his team from Santa Clara and the sun-kissed shores of California, his team was in shape for the game.

Wilton Kilgore, his star back and the pet in the gas tank, will play. Kilgore was hurt in the Santa Clara game and it was feared by Auburn supporters he would not be able to play Saturday. Jack Meagher yesterday said his star would be ready as would the remainder of the team.

COLLINS AILS YET. Tech likely will not be able to use Red Collins, the blocking back. His knee will permit him to run but he cannot turn quickly to his right or left. And the back who can go in only one direction isn't of much value.

Fletcher Sims, the best passer, and Lawrence Hays, starting halfback, were both doing light chores yesterday.

This is enough to make the Tech coaching staff a sure-fire first-round winner as moaners of blues on the Major Bowes program. But they are issuing no statements at all and are doing a lot of conditioning work and drilling on signals.

Rain halted long enough yesterday for the team to go through a long signal drill. It was wet and cold but the squad showed a lot of spirit.

The Tech squad has an unusually fine spirit this year. They are working together well. This may be enough to cause them to lift themselves above their handicaps and to turn back Auburn.

AUBURN FAVORED. But Auburn must remain the favorite to win. There is no way to escape that conclusion. As the Tech squad stands today, the Plainsmen are two touchdowns the better team.

By Saturday the estimate may have changed. Much depends on Konemann and his tonsils.

Auburn will arrive in Atlanta about noon Friday, going to their hotel at Ponce de Leon and Peachtree street. They will work out at Grant field in the afternoon.

The team was given a great welcome yesterday by students and townspeople on its arrival at Auburn from Santa Clara.

Evening School Five Begins Drills Tonight

The Georgia Evening School, winners in the Atlanta Metropolitan league last year, will hold their first practice tonight on the Y. W. C. A. court at 8:45. This court has been secured as the home court for the school until their cage is completed.

Among the varsity members of last year returning are Griffith, Hill, Brown, Blackstock, Thompson, Saville, Woodcock, Phillips Gregory, Gardner and Shutte.

The school will have a large number of independent games this year, and Coach Layton is anxious to get in touch with teams within a radius of 100 miles who desire games. He may be reached at Walnut 2981 or at the school.

Cornelia Will Play Eastanollee Friday

CORNELIA, Ga., Nov. 4.—When the Cornelia High Appleknockers battled the strong Canton "even to a standstill" Friday night and gained a 12-to-12 tie, it came as a high mark of Cornelia's most successful gridiron season in five years.

From out of the doldrums of last year's drab season they came to a brilliant campaign, at this point marked only by a tie with a team rated by pregame experts as 20 points superior.

The Appleknockers expect one of their largest games when they play Eastanollee in Cornelia, Friday.

Boston College-N. Carolina State; Boston College by whiter.

Dartmouth-Columbia; Toss-up, Dartmouth.

Delaware-P. M. C. P. M. C. Fordham-Purdue; Fordham looks better.

Gettysburg-Dickinson; Dickinson.

Harvard-Virginia; Harvard wins this one.

Holy Cross-Colgate; Holy Cross should win.

LaFayette-W. & J. W. & J. Manhattan-Kentucky; Very close, Manhattan.

Navy-Notre Dame; Another defeat for Navy.

N. Y. U.-Carnegie; Carnegie in close game.

Pennsylvania-Michigan; Select Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh-Penn State; Pitt too strong.

West Va.-Georgetown; West Virginia.

Williams-Wesleyan; Williams to win Little Three title.

Yale-Brown; Yale over improved Brown team.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The eastern football program this week features intersectional games of great interest, there being no less than seven such contests on the card. About an equal number of eastern battles will be between traditional or natural rivals.

Fordham and Purdue will furnish a nice game. Purdue teams in recent years have been scoring outfits and this year's team is no exception. The Fordham team, however, has been so strong defensively that I question the ability of Purdue to score. The Fordham offense has been slowly improving and I look to see it click in this game. My selection is Fordham in a close contest.

In meeting the Navy, Notre Dame plays a very good football team which has been unable to win against its major opponents. Based on past performance, Notre Dame looks too good for Navy.

In playing Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Michigan will be seeking a second victory of the season over an eastern rival. Michigan defeated Columbia two weeks ago, but I am inclined to believe that Michigan will find the veteran Pennsylvania team much stronger. My choice is Pennsylvania in an evenly contested battle.

FAVORS TEMPLE. Michigan State upset Temple in 1935. The Michigan team is a very fine eleven and is usually very formidable on its home games. Temple showed fine strength against Holy Cross and looked to be an improved aggregation. This game will also be very close, but I am inclined to favor the chances of Temple by a narrow margin.

In its splendid game with Princeton, the Harvard squad evidently found itself. The stimulus of this victory should help Harvard and enable it to continue to play better football and to win over Virginia.

In the pre-season game, Kentucky was selected as the best team in the south. Although it is a good team, it has not measured up to expectations. Manhattan is strong and I believe it will be good enough to defeat the southerners.

Boston College meets its second intersectional foe in two weeks. Boston College played at Harvard and lost a strong Michigan State eleven. It is my opinion that the Bostonians will be good enough to defeat North Carolina State.

The Dartmouth-Columbia game is difficult to predict. Both teams are strong offensively. The game appears to be a toss-up. Dartmouth is extremely difficult to beat at Hanover and, for that reason, I am selecting Dartmouth to win the toughest kind of a battle.

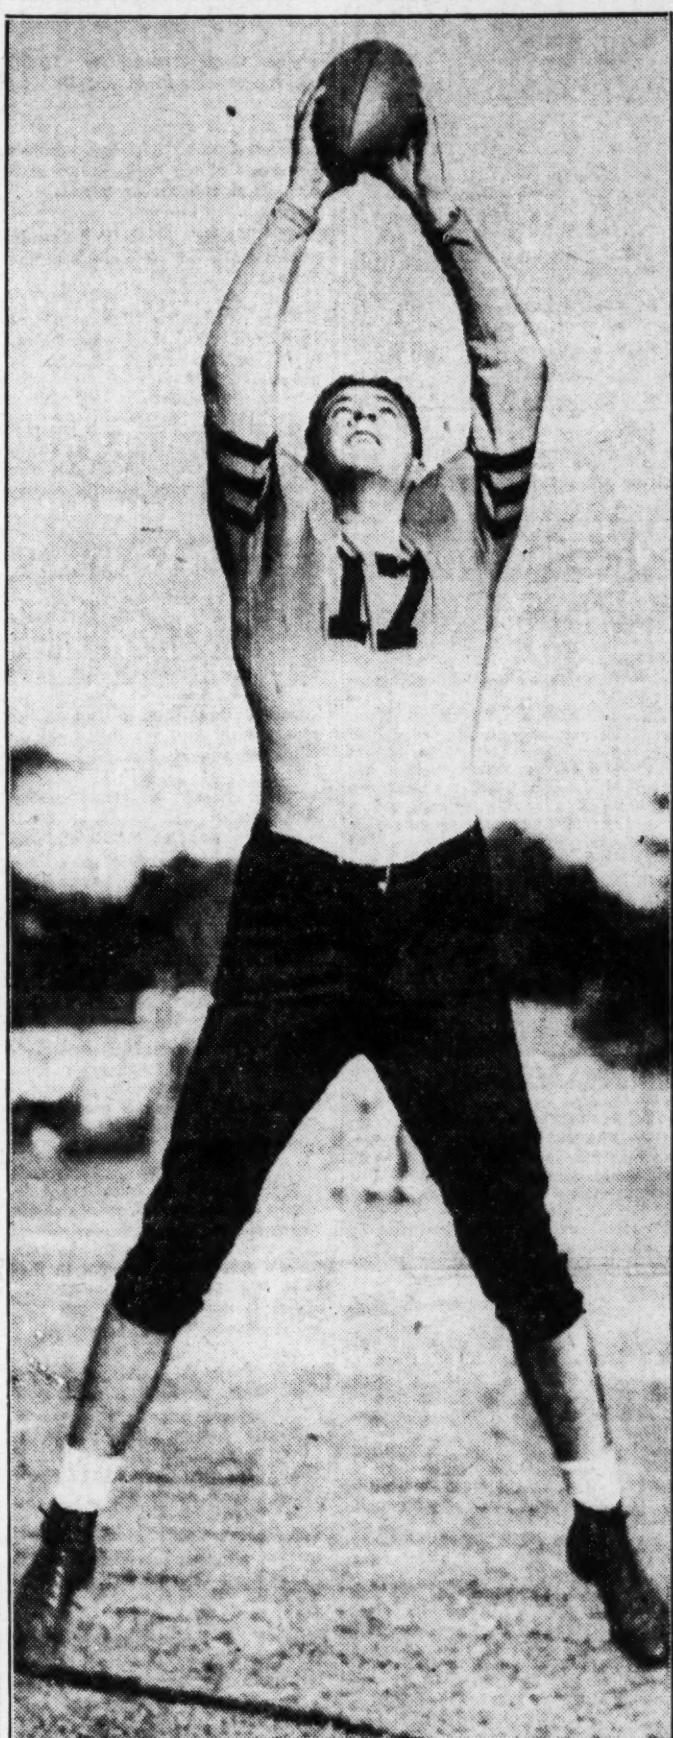

In their clash at Princeton, Cornell and Princeton are both likely to score. Princeton, a fine football team, will be on the rebound from its disappointing showing at Harvard. Cornell is strong and is a match for any team in the east. Indications point to a Princeton victory, although the margin will be very slight.

Although Holy Cross dropped a close decision to Temple last Saturday, it has been more consistent this season than Colgate. Colgate looked impressive against the Red Sox in the second half and played good football. On past performance, Holy Cross must be considered the favorite.

Two old-time rivals clash in the Pittsburgh-Penn State encounter. Penn State, an improved football unit, will make a valiant fight, but Pittsburgh is too strong and will win decisively.

N. Y. U. has been showing increasing power in each start. In meeting Carnegie, it takes on a good team that has been playing extremely fine football, but has been unable to win against strong opposition. I look for Carnegie to find itself in the N. Y. U. game and turn in a victory.

Star Auburn End Ready

Joel Eaves, former Tech High star who is Auburn's All-Southern end candidate, will start against Tech here Saturday. Out of the Georgia and Santa Clara games as a result of a leg injury, Eaves is now in splendid condition, his coach, Jack Meagher, advises. Eaves is a dangerous and adept pass receiver. Staff photo.

HUDSON, JONES CAPTAIN TEAMS IN "LOSERS PAY"

East Lake Golfers Close Out Regular Season With Tourney Today.

East Lake golfers will close out the regular season of play today with the annual "losers pay" tournament and dinner, a popular feature.

Colonel R. P. Jones, one of nature's noblemen and a pretty fair country golfer himself, will captain one team against the veteran Scott Hudson.

"There is an old saying that it's the woman who pays," said Colonel Jones when interviewed last evening, "but on Thursday it will be the Scott Hudson team that pays and pays and pays."

"Colonel Jones," said Scott Hudson, "is talking through his hat. It's in the bag for the Hudson team because my team contains the club's real golfers."

Players are requested to begin play not later than 1 o'clock this afternoon. Entries may be made as late as noon. Play may be over either course and the scoring will be Nassau. All members are asked to enter. Pairings, with the Hudson team entries named first in each instance, are:

Arch Martin and L. R. Hunter vs. J. R. Gorington and R. P. Jones.

Scott Hudson and Travis Johnson vs. Crawford Rainwater and Cliff Eley.

J. A. Whitley and T. B. Robertson vs. J. A. Malone and Ewing Humphries.

E. A. Thornwell and C. O. Long vs. J. A. Harris and C. C. Gray.

O. T. Clark and Dr. R. K. Vann vs. G. B. Sisson and T. L. Johnson.

R. I. Reed and John Bickel vs. Harry Sommers and L. A. Burdett.

Vanderbilt Freshmen Beat Sewanee, 20-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 4.—(AP) After a splendid first-half exhibition, the defense of Sewanee's outnumbered freshmen crumbled and allowed the Vanderbilt yearlings to carry away a 20-0 victory on snowsprinkled Dudley field this afternoon.

The youngsters from the mountain held their larger and more numerous foes to a lone touchdown in the first three periods, then fell before the late attack which netted two more tallies.

Little Bert Marshall, of Greenville, Texas, and quarterback of Coach Henry Frank's Vandy team showed the 500 shivering fans present some of the neatest broken field running, dodging and feinting they have seen in many years.

He scored all three touchdowns and the team was not the same without him. In addition his punting was far above the varsity's kicking in games this season, while what few passes he threw were to the mark with one exception.

RETURN OF BACK GIVES BULLDOGS NEW CONFIDENCE

Johnson May Face Florida; Harman Out; Anderson Available.

By Jack Troy.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 4.—Chained to the sidelines by injury for the past five games, Wild Bill Hartman, spark plug of the Georgia offense, has tossed off the fetters and will start against the University of Florida "Gators" Saturday at Jacksonville.

Hartman played for a short time in the Mercer game. He came out with what appeared to be a harmless sort of injury. He had bruised the calf of his leg.

He practiced that next week, thinking the leg was better. Then complications set in. There was a blood clot in the muscles. And so big is the calf of Bill Hartman's leg the subsequent healing process was very slow.

Out of the Furman, L. S. U., Rice, Auburn and Tennessee games, he should provide a spark for the Bulldogs against Florida. The boys sort of look up to Hartman.

Hallback Coot Vandiver, who Coach Harry Mehre says "will be a great back some of these days," was promoted to the varsity again along with Gus Cleveland, guard, before practice today. The lanky halfback was the bright spot of the afternoon. They will see action Saturday.

There has been so much tough luck connected with the Georgia team of this year that no one really knows just what the team could do if each and every one came up to a certain game in good physical shape.

TAKE THE RICE GAME. Injuries have wrecked Georgia this year. I give you the Rice game as an example of what Georgia can do.

The Bulldogs bounced back from a terrific defeat against an L. S. U. team that was keyed to a million. That Saturday night L. S. U. went into the game fearing the worst.

An early field goal was attempted. Old Lou wanted to get a jump and then try and hold on. That's the truth of the matter. Coach Hermie Moore verified it. Then the old Lou powerhouse got going. And there was no stopping it.

Georgia bounced back from that defeat and, with such players as Hartman out of the game, outplayed Rice for the better part of four quarters. Georgia lost by a touchdown margin. Rice putting in the only sustained drive of the game with only four minutes left to play.

RICE BREEZING. You know, of course, what the Rice team has done since then. Just this, Rice defeated Texas, the team that tied L. S. U., and followed this up with a defeat of unbeaten Georgia Washington.

Georgia outplayed Rice so thoroughly that the figures favored the Bulldogs more than two to one.

The Bulldogs surged back against Auburn in the last half. It was a pin and needles proposition for Coach Jack Meagher and his Tigers.

It was sort of expected that Georgia might play Tennessee a close game this season, while what few passes he threw were to the mark with one exception.

ROSE OF SOLEDAD

By GEORGE E. HOLT.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Shane O'Hara, of Baltimore, sells his new biplane to help out the family finances when his once wealthy father dies, picks up cheap an old crate he used to own and hops off for California to see what can be done about La Paloma ranch which his father gave him when he was 21. Near San Felix his plane takes fire and his parachute lands him in a giant elm tree. The whistling of "Little Birdie" in the trees directs his attention to a small figure in faded blue trousers. The imperious man, directing him to get to earth. He does just that, only to discover that the crane he has just spunked is a girl who at first is angry, then goes away laughing when she notes his embarrassment. And Timothy Delane, known throughout as Don Timoteo, asks Shane to be his guest at La Paloma, which by the way, says chance adorns La Paloma. When at dinner he meets beautiful Rose Delane, his host's granddaughter, the possessive attitude of Don Fernando Miller irritates him, though at first he reddens at the suspicion that she is the imp he spunked. Delane tells him the title to La Paloma has been questioned. Black Sam Verdugo is the claimant and when Shane goes to see him, the Mexican, now the manager, tells him the Fox possession only over his dead body. Shane tells Don Timoteo he will let him take it over, but he must give him Soledad together Delane, with a twinkle in his eye that Shane does not miss, says to take it you aren't very sympathetic to Don Fernando. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT IX.

And then he remembered what she had said about that gentleman. Maybe she had met Don Fernando in town, and he had insisted that she return with him. Maybe. Somehow Shane O'Hara couldn't picture this girl yielding to insistence—unless she wanted to. He kept his jaws closed and asked no questions and very soon they were at Soledad.

"If you'll tell me where I could find a tow rope," he said, then, "I'll go get Don Fernando out of the ditch."

"I'll see," replied the girl. Lifting her voice she called, "Oye! Oye! Manuelito!"

"Si, senorita," a distant voice replied. And shortly a young Mexican came running. To him Miss Delane addressed quick Spanish words, like the rolling of a drum.

The Mexican youth's face was covered by a smile, his dark eyes snapped; apparently he was a humble but devoted worshiper of his Lady of Soledad. And when he had received her instructions he touched his straw hat and ran to carry them out. Shane O'Hara caught a word here and there, but not enough to understand.

"You might as well sit down on the porch and be comfortable," she said to Shane. "It may take Manuelito quite a while to find a rope. We don't often need one—almost never. But I think there's one around here some place. . . . I must report to mother."

Shane remained in the car. Smoked a cigarette. Oughtn't to take Manuelito long to find a tow rope—in as well-managed a place as Soledad. He finished his smoke, lighted another. No Manuelito! He had been sitting here for ten minutes. Where'd women funny! And Don Fernando would be having a cat fit. . . . If it hadn't been for the blowout tire, it would have looked as though Don Fernando had been paying more attention to something else than to driving. Probably making love to Miss Delane. Shane O'Hara trusted that thought for a moment. It gave him the chills. Where was that kid Manuelito? Twenty minutes gone. Fernando would be having a fit. Right time to get out of the car. Shane got out of the car and followed in the footsteps of the Mexican boy. Reaching the stables he called out, "Manuelito! Manuelito! Where are you?"

"Here, senor," said a smooth voice. "Here under the tree fixing a bride."

Shane turned, saw the boy, who rose and came toward him, smiling.

"Where the devil's that tow rope Miss Delane told you to get for me?" Shane asked.

"Tow rope, senor?" said Manuelito. "Tow rope? I do not understand, senor."

"Didn't Miss Delane tell you to go and find a tow rope—a rope to pull an automobile with?"

"But no, senor," said Manuelito, shaking his head, eyes wide. "Miss Delane told me to fix this bride. She said nothing to me about a tow rope. Nothing, senor."

"The hell she didn't!" Shane exploded. "Well, well, well! The little vixen! Now why—? Well, anyhow, Manuelito, you see if you can find me a tow rope right now. What?"

"But that is an easy matter, senor," said the boy. "I know right where one is. It always hangs in the same place in the garage. I'll fetch it, pronto."

"It may take Manuelito quite a while to find a rope," Shane quoted. "We don't often need one." Hmph! And in the meantime Fernando was throwing fits on the public highway and probably dancing upon that $100 Panama of his. Now why—why—had Miss Delane taken such a nasty crack at him? Rosa mia! Hmph! It became quite manifest to Shane O'Hara that contact with Miss Rose Delane meant occasional surprise and grief. The Rose of Soledad was a beautiful blossom, but there were thorns. Thorns beyond a doubt. Quite!

Manuelito returned triumphant with the tow rope. Shane threw it into the tonneau, got into the car, set the engine going. And as he was about to throw the machine into gear a feminine figure appeared upon the veranda—though she had been waiting this auspicious moment.

"Ah! You found the tow rope, then?" Rose remarked brightly. "That's just fine."

"Isn't it?" returned Shane with equal brightness. "We never would have found it if it hadn't been for your aid. But what's the big idea?"

"What big idea?" asked Rose, opening her eyes wider and looking innocent.

"Keeping Don Fernando—your fiancé—throwing fits on the highway. Tearing his hair. Ruining a valuable hat. Probably biting himself. And he'll curse me for it, not you."

"Oh, well," said the girl, and ventured a yawn. "I reckon you can stand some cursing. Curse him back, that's the idea!" She brightened at the thought. Shane granted and threw the gear shift. The car moved slowly. He scarcely heard the girl's words: "That car wouldn't have left the road if he hadn't tried to—to get funny."

Shane O'Hara returned to Don Fernando with the speedometer registering around 15.

Don Fernando surprised him. How could he know that Don Fernando had hit his fit; had blustered the car's enamel with his language; had quieted down thereafter, realizing that Miss Delane was punishing him for his temerity. Don Fernando knew women better than Shane O'Hara. After his first explosion, he had guessed what she would do. And not only because he realized that O'Hara would also be her victim, but because it did fit in with certain plans in his head. O'Hara found an amazingly nonchalant Don Fernando when he at last drove up with the tow rope.

It was a simple matter to yank the car out of the ditch, straighten it out on the highway, change wheels. They worked together. Don Fernando oblivious apparently to the dirt stains which multiplied on his immaculate whites and upon his aristocratic soft hands. And when the job was finished, he thanked O'Hara very nicely, got into his car and drove off toward his own rancho.

"Now I wonder," Shane asked himself as he started back for Soledad. "Just how funny Don Fernando tried to get. That car skidded off the road before the tire blew out. Tracks showed that. Land on a sharp nose in the ditch; tore the casing. Hmph! Well, well, well! That's a funny way to treat a fiancé. . . . I wonder. . . . I wonder if a girl with eyes like hers would fib to a fellow?"

The rest of the day at Soledad passed pleasantly enough.

Rose was amiable to Shane, affectionate to her family. Dinner was livelier—due, Shane told himself, not only to the added presence of Rose's mother and her lame brother, Teddy, but to the absence of Don Fernando.

The cousin, Dick Truesdale, whom Shane had not seen all day, bobbed up hungry and facetious; Mrs. Delane had a pungent wit which she brought to bear upon various national affairs, and a sudden profound sympathy for people in distress. Her daughter followed in her tracks, and showed a rather unusual acquaintance with what was going on in Washington. Lane Teddy joked bravely about this and that, and was much interested in the flying that he could never do. And old Don Timoteo presided over the feast like an ancient tribal patriarch. Shane appreciated the graciousness of mother and daughter and expanded under it—but nevertheless on guard all the time, not to expose himself to unexpected thorn. Which made him seem more humble and unaccomplished than he really was.

After the meal, Don Fernando rode up, and came in to greet them all. And after a while he said:

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

When your best friend starts flourishing your best hanky.

Private ownership of handkerchiefs is so difficult to maintain in our society that we're beginning to feel that the whole idea should be given up.

What happens? You're given a lovely hanky for your birthday, and it is most effective with your best dress. So on Sunday you get all dolled up in dress and hanky and go to see your best friend. But during cocktails you forget the hanky and leave it behind you. And the next time your best friend comes to see you she starts flourishing your hanky as though it were her own.

Of course, you can speak up and say it's yours. But that will probably hurt her feelings and break up a beautiful friendship. Or you can ignore the fact that you recognized your handkerchief, but in your heart of hearts you'll always hold it against the girl. So the only way out is never let yourself call a handkerchief your own. Or, if you think it's easier, you might just never leave your handkerchiefs lying around.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

THE BULL MOOSE.

The bull moose has antlers which are a wonder to behold. Often they measure four or five feet from tip to tip, and sometimes the spread is even greater than that.

On a winter day, years ago, two men were walking through forest land in eastern Canada when they came upon the trail of a moose in the heavy, rather moist snow. One of the men was named Billy Chestnut, the other was an old trapper known as "Henry." They decided to follow the trail in the hope of being able to shoot the moose.

Soon the men saw other tracks, the footprints of two bears! The bear tracks followed the trail of the moose. The prints in the snow were far enough apart to make it look as though the moose was running fast ("pacing"), while the bears were "galloping."

The men were excited. What would happen if the bears caught up with the moose? This question was answered in a way they did not expect. Tracks showed that the moose had been joined by another moose, and that they had turned to fight the bears! The moose were gone, but the old trapper Henry caught sight of one of the bears, up a tree, and at the foot of the same tree was the other bear, dying from a horn-thrust.

Chestnut shot the bear in the tree, and was thinking of going farther along the trail to shoot the moose, but the trapper said to him, "Not on your life! I wouldn't let those moose be killed after the fine fight they put up against the bears—not if they had horns as wide as a river! If I found them, I'd give them all the oats they could eat!"

A bull moose

In the year 1910 a moose slain in an Ontario forest was found to have antlers spreading out 71 inches. The all-time record, however, seems to be held by an Alaskan moose. The hunter said that when he first measured the antlers, they had a spread of 84 inches. Later, after being placed in the Field museum of Chicago, they shrank to 78 inches. Seventy-eight inches means six and a half feet. The weight of the record antlers, counting the skull, is given as 93 pounds.

A bull moose is likely to stand about six feet high at the shoulders. In a few cases, the animals have measured seven feet at the shoulders, and one moose slain in British Columbia was reported to measure eight feet "from hoof to hump." If we add two feet as the height of the horns above the shoulders, we gain an idea of a

By STEPHEN DICKINSON.
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(A)—With the removal of election uncertainty the bond market today cast off its gloom and sprang fractionally to more than points higher.

Wildest game in the corporate discipline was resister by convertible bonds and issues having stock purchase warrants as prices soared at the stock market. United States government loans shared the spotlight; at the advance, but the utility list lagged down a bit.

Among conversion obligations, All Chalmers raised 1-2 points to 203. It was the first time this issue has crossed the 200 mark. Studebaker 6s added 7 1-2 at 126, with maturity in 1945.

Turnover was the heaviest in some time, $15,061,000, face value, before the total for all bonds against $8,460,000.

Nearly $3,000,000 in government changed hands at higher levels. The best gain was made by treasury 2 3-8s at 104-15, up from 103-32 to a point to 104-26. Home Owners Loan 2 3-4s of 1949 added 10-32 to 102 and treasury 2 3-4s of 1935 added 10-32 to 101-15.

Sugar company bonds were in demand as the industry interpreted the election results as auguring recovery for the cane crop, which expires December 31. Manati, Camaguey, Francisco Escal Cuba bonds scored gains of 1-2 to 104-15.

Railroad and industrial liens slightly uneven, although the latter majority finished with advances post-election.

158 EDGEWOOD AVENUE WA. 2245Bill To Legalize 'Mercy Deaths'
Submitted to British Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A "mercy death" bill to permit medical men to kill incurable patients was introduced in parliament today. It was presented by Lord Ponsonby, chairman of a year's campaign by many medical and church leaders for euthanasia—their term for "easy death."

It would enable physicians and surgeons legally to put to death patients suffering great pain from conditions diagnosed as hopeless.

For almost a year there has been a growing sentiment in England for and against "mercy death." Advocates have included some of the highest medical authorities of the realm who organized a "Euthanasia Society."

Reaction was more sharply divided over the London Daily Mail's account, on November 1, 1935, of a physician's "confession" of five "mercy deaths."

The newspaper, which described the doctor as "a kindly-faced elderly family doctor," said he told of having put to death a newly-born baby "doomed to imbecility," and four adults suffering incurable diseases.

"I've taken life on five different occasions," the newspaper quoted, "him, and my conscience has never prickled me. I still carry with me the memories of those cases and the happy faces before they died. If need be, I'm prepared to face any tribunal in the land."

Agitation for legalized "mercy deaths" soon became widespread, under the leadership of the late Lord Moynehan, of Leeds, former president of the Royal College of Surgeons, who was head of the Euthanasia Society.

Personally he led the campaign for parliamentary approval of "mercy deaths" until his death, September 9, 1935, at the age of 70.

Havelock Ellis was one of the staunch advocates of Euthanasia, as were such prominent medical men as Sir George Buchanan, Sir Leonard Hill, Sir Walter Langdon Brown, and Sir Frederick Mearns.

Dean Inge, Episcopal canon of Manchester, led English churchmen supporting Lord Moynehan.

The strongest opposition came from high Catholic churchmen.

"We have no right to take other people's lives," said Dr. Peter E. Amigo, Catholic bishop of Southwark, South London diocese, "in my view it is good to suffer purgatory on this earth."

The Euthanasia Society at one period claimed moral support from the teachings of a saint who died four centuries ago.

Saint Thomas More, lord chancellor of England under Henry VIII, the society announced, would "most certainly" have supported euthanasia if he were alive.

A fellow passenger with Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks was Merle Oberon, English film actress, who was returning to London to make two new pictures.

Mrs. J. J. Adams, of Toledo, Ohio, found a lily-of-the-valley growing through hole in a button, lying on the ground.

FAIRBANKS, MATE SAIL FOR WINTER VACATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks and his wife, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley, sailed for England today on the Queen Mary for a winter vacation.

The actor-producer said they would stay in London for a time, then visit Switzerland for some skiing before he left for China to supervise shooting of oriental scenes of his long planned film, "Marco Polo."

A fellow passenger with Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks was Merle Oberon, English film actress, who was returning to London to make two new pictures.

Mrs. J. J. Adams, of Toledo, Ohio, found a lily-of-the-valley growing through hole in a button, lying on the ground.
